Before starting the preface to this volume I have re-read what I said in the preface to volume I, El Kurru. The statements there made apply equally to this second volume of The Royal Cemeteries of Kush and the reader is therefore referred to them.

The acknowledgments due are essentially the same for both volumes but they should be reiterated and supplemented. The quality of the drawings is in large part to be credited to Miss Chapman. Since volume I was prepared she has acquired facility in the neat and accurate reproduction of hieroglyphs. Her copies of inscriptions were made possible because of the patient labor of decipherment and collation contributed by my assistant Bernard V. Bothmer, and in the case of several of the important stelae, by similar contributions from Professor Richard A. Parker of Brown University, to whom I am especially indebted for his unselfish sacrifice of much time and effort. His frequent journeys between Providence and Boston to copy and collate, and the benefit of his philological knowledge and experience, have made these copies as accurate as is humanly possible. I am also most grateful to Dr. John A. Wilson of the Oriental Institute, Chicago for his collation with the original at Merowe of our copy of the stela of S'aspiqa, which we had only been able to reproduce from a single photograph in the records of the Expedition. The late Dr. H. H. Nelson and he went to Merowe in the autumn of 1952 to do this, and while there they made rubbings of the inscriptions on the sarcophagus of Anlamani which had not hitherto been adequately recorded. I wish to thank Mr. Ralph Bankes for permission to reproduce the photograph of an old drawing of Nu. 1 preserved among the Bankes MSS. in the Griffith Institute, Oxford, as well as Miss Rosalind Moss of the Griffith Institute for calling my attention to this and other important documents there. Finally, I am grateful to Mr. P. L. Shinnie, Commissioner for Archaeology in Khartoum, for providing me with two photographs of the silver vessel 17-1-280 inscribed for King Analma'aye, reproduced on Pl. xc.

Substr. Substructure: that portion of a tomb which lies below the level of the ground.
Superstr. Superstructure: that portion of a tomb which rises above the level of the ground.
T.D. Thieves' debris: material disturbed by ancient plundering. Objects found in thieves' debris are not necessarily from the particular tomb in which they are found, although there is a probability that they are: they may have been dropped by plunderers who had been looting another tomb, or may have been brought to their finding place by thieves of a later date, and be contemporary with the thieves rather than with the tomb in which they are found. Objects, on the other hand, which come from the original undisturbed deposit or filling of a tomb must be contemporary with it and form part of its original furnishing.

Plate Reference System

In referring to plates where many objects are shown on the same photograph, a system of numbers is used in which is given first the row (from top to bottom) and second the object in that row (from left to right). In cases where confusion might arise over the extent and numbering of rows, they are defined on the photograph. Thus Pl. CXIVA 1/7 refers to the seventh object from the left in the top row, a Canopic figure from Nu. 44 (17-4-49), while 1/8-11 following to the right in the same row are four granulated gold disc beads from Nu. 4 (17-4-140). On the same photograph 5/2-7 refers to six gold Udjat-eyes from Nu. 44, all numbered 17-4-73.

Photographs

On the photographic plates the letter and number designation beneath each picture at the right is the registered negative number. Numbers preceded only by A, B, or C are Expedition field photographs in three sizes. Numbers preceded by MFA, C, B, or A are Boston Museum photographs, also in three sizes. Numbers preceded by EG are Egyptian Department photographs. All these negatives are on file in the Museum in Boston and prints from them can be supplied by applying to the Department of Egyptian Art.
Introduction

THE SITE (PLS. I AND II)

From a point opposite the railway station of Kareima the Nile, which at this point flows in a southwesterly direction, takes a gradual bend to the east as one goes upstream toward the Fourth Cataract. About six miles above Kareima, and approximately a mile south of the river, stands the cemetery of Nuri, so named after the neighboring village which lies to the northwest on the outskirts of palm groves between the Nile and the pyramids. See Plate II B, C, and the sketch map in El Kurru.¹

As our contour map shows, the tombs are built primarily along two areas of relatively high ground running parallel to one another in a northeasterly-southwesterly direction. On the western of these two ridges, at its highest point, stands Nu. 1, the tomb of Taharqa, which is both the earliest and the largest of the Nuri pyramids. Not far to the north of Nu. 1 are the tombs of two of Taharqa’s queens (Nu. 35, 36). His successor, Tanwetamani, was buried at El Kurru (see El Kurru, Ku. 16) together with two of his wives (Ku. 5, 6), but four other women of his generation had small tombs at Nuri at the northern end of the western ridge (Nu. 59, 74, 77, and 80). Subsequently the grouping of the tombs at Nuri follows a well-defined pattern. The western ridge, and its outlying western projection behind Nu. 1, was reserved for the tombs of women. The pyramids of the later kings, starting on a projection southeast of Nu. 1, gradually occupied the eastern ridge from south to north, and then the slightly less desirable area between the two ridges. If the reader will examine the contour map with reference to the chronological order of the tombs (see list on p. 2) he will see that Nuri furnishes an excellent illustration of the principal of the primary site: each tomb was built on the most favorable spot remaining vacant on the site at the time it was constructed.

HISTORY OF THE EXCAVATION OF NURI

The history of the excavation of the six royal cemeteries of Kush by the Harvard University–Museum of Fine Arts Egyptian Expedition is set forth in detail in El Kurru, pp. 7–10.

CHRONOLOGY

Of the three cemetery sites in the district of Napata, El Kurru was the earliest and Nuri, the burial place of the kings and most of the queens of Kush from Taharqa to Nastaseñ, followed it in chronological sequence, while the pyramids of Barkal were of still later date and are to be associated, chronologically and culturally, with the Meroitic phase of Kushite history. It is therefore logical that Nuri should form the subject of volume II in this series. There is, however, a certain amount of overlapping between El Kurru and Nuri. This is shown in the following chronological list, in which the tombs at El Kurru which fall within the period covered are included in parentheses. They have been dealt with in volume I and are not described in this volume.

It has been found convenient to group the many tombs in the royal cemeteries of Kush by generations, or rather by reigns, in preference to the more cumbersome method of calendar dates. From Kashta, the first king whose name is known, to the last king buried in the North Cemetery at Meroë, 66 consecutive reigns have been established, and these are used throughout these publications as indications of relative dating. They are represented by the italicized numerals 1 to 66 in parentheses: (1), (2), etc.

In the majority of cases their exact length is not known. Reisner, whose chronology is used here with only minor modifications, based his estimate of the lengths of individual reigns on such factors as the size of the royal tomb, the wealth of its equipment, and such information about those who were already known as had been obtained from other sources. However, while the exact lengths of individual reigns are not firmly established, there are a number of points of contact with already known history, so that any error is confined within narrow limits. Examples are Egyptian references to Piankhy, Taharqa and other kings of the 25th Dynasty, and later on to such already known kings as Harsiotef and Nastasep.

In addition to the above, two names of kings have been noted at Nuri, but their tombs have not been found: PlERANKHARTEN; name on objects in F. D.s of Nu. 25 (14)? AMANIBAKHI; name on two inscribed objects from Nu. 100 (Nos. 1 and 6).
THE PLUNDERING OF THE NURI CEMETERY

Every one of the pyramids at Nuri had been anciently entered by plunderers. Their almost universal method of penetration into the subterranean chambers was by digging a hole through the original filling of the stairway at its western end, adjacent to the doorway which gave access to these chambers. On reaching the upper part of the blocked doorway sufficient of the blocking was removed to allow entry into the chambers which, at the time of penetration by the thieves, were unencumbered by debris, except in so far as rock falls from the roof may have occurred. It is apparent that the burial itself was the focus of their attention, for in no case was this found undisturbed. In most cases a very large part of the original content of the chambers had been either carried away or broken up by the thieves. This loot was removed often in a rather hasty and careless manner, for an appreciable portion of the finds of objects which could be assigned to the original equipment of a tomb were found in the thieves' debris outside its doorway, or in the drifted material which subsequently filled the hole left open by the plunderers. One example of this is the finding in this thieves' debris of broken shawabti figures corresponding to those still in situ in the burial chamber. One must imagine that the thieves, whose small penetration afforded them but scanty light for their work, took everything which could be easily carried to the surface for examination, and then threw back into the hole they had made such objects as did not interest them. Subsequently much of this discarded material would be washed back into the tomb by the summer rains. Thus, doubtless, may be explained the finding in one tomb of objects inscribed with the name of the owner of a different one, for the plunderers no doubt sometimes waited until they had looted several burials before closely examining their finds. It seems likely that much of the plundering was done on a wholesale scale, perhaps by considerable groups who would then foregather to examine, divide, and quarrel over their finds.

Some of the plundering at Nuri clearly took place while the cemetery was still in use. An example is the finding of the heart scarab of AMANI-NATAKI-LEBTE of Nu. 10 (died ca. 513 B.C.) in the original filling of the stair of Nu. 16, whose owner was buried less than a century later and over a hundred years before the cemetery ceased to be used as a royal burial place. However, by far the bulk of the plundering was of later date. Potsherds of post-Meroitic or Coptic date were found in quantity among thieves' debris in many of the pyramids and, indeed, all over the site. The Coptic church Nu. 100 had incorporated in its pavement a number of inscribed stelae and offering-tables taken from the pyramid chapels. In the area north of Nu. 1 and adjacent to Nu. 100 (see Map and Plate n c) the older buildings had been extensively overbuilt by houses partly constructed out of materials taken from the pyramids and chapels. Clearly the occupation of the Napatan royal cemetery as a habitation site in Coptic times was responsible for the thorough plundering to which the pyramids had been subjected.

NOTE ON MATERIALS

The publications of Egyptologists are frequently criticised for the lack of specific definition in the terminology they use to describe the materials from which the artefacts they record were made. Geologists and metallurgists complain of our inaccuracy, and quite rightly. They should, however, make allowance for the difficulties with which the excavator is faced. Most Egyptologists are not trained in these disciplines and few field expeditions can afford to employ such specialists. During the pressure of work inevitable in the field, where one or two scholars are hard put to it to keep abreast with the recording of finds, there is no time for minute examination, let alone laboratory analyses. It is not always easy to distinguish decayed faience from frit, for example, nor to tell whether an object is of copper or bronze. Such general and admittedly unsatisfactory terms as alabaster, granite, shell, quartzite and the like are used in the field partly through lack of specialized training and partly through lack of time to make minute examinations. Ideally, definitive publication should have the benefit of analysis and laboratory examination of a large part of the finds. Both time and expense usually prohibit such procedure.

The writer has been very conscious of this problem but has been unable to solve it. He has felt that his only recourse was to use the terms found in the original records except where his own examination of objects has enabled him, with his very limited knowledge of the disciplines involved, to correct them. Three specific cases, however, resulting from laboratory examinations in the Museum of Fine Arts should be mentioned.

At Nuri as at other sites excavated by us in the Sudan, many small objects (amulets, scarabs, inlays and the like) were made of an attractive greenish semiprecious stone which our records generally described as beryl, but sometimes also as turquoise, amazon stone, or emerald matrix. Two examples of such materials have been tested by Mr. William J. Young, Director of Conservation at the Museum. One, a dark green stone with paler veining, proved to be nephrite jade; the other, of a paler green, was a form of feldspar resembling turquoise, which was described as microcline.

Among the many stone shawabti figures of Taharqa a large number were described as granite and were dull grey in color. When the surface layers of the stone (resulting from long immersion in water) were removed they were found to be dark green, and were described as of dolomite or ankerite. Others of these figures showed a slightly reddish tinge and when cut revealed a mottled dark red coloration. These were described by Mr. Young as a serpentinized peridotite, and are thought by him to have been originally of the same color as the dolomite examples, but to have oxidized more rapidly.

Gold is, of course, one of the easiest materials to recognize in the field, but the various grades of electrum and of gold alloyed with baser metals are harder to identify. Such are many of the "cylinder-sheaths," notably from Nu. 8. Of the fifteen found in that tomb only three were of true gold; the rest were described as being of base gold, possibly containing copper or silver. These were easy to distinguish from the gold ones because they were considerably oxidized. Four other examples of this unique class of object were of gold plated silver (Nu. 3, 9, 10 and 27), one was of gold (Nu. 27), one of electrum (Nu. 2) and one of base gold (Nu. 15).

PREVIOUS PUBLICATION

The invaluable reference work Topographical Bibliography of Ancient Egyptian Hieroglyphic Texts, Reliefs, and Paintings, VII Nubia, the Deserts and Outside Egypt, by the late Bertha Porter and Rosalind Moss, assisted by Ethel Burney (Oxford, 1951), furnishes comprehensive references to all significant previous publications on Nuri, cites numerous unpublished manuscripts and photographs, and lists most objects heretofore known from the site. All pertinent references will be found there on pp. 223 to 233, as well as a list of the pyramids (using our numbering) which can be identified with named persons.
Description of Tombs

Nu. 1. (5) Fig. i, Pl. III A. Tomb of TAHARQA, son of PIIANKHY (2), younger brother of SHEBITKU (4).

SUPERSTR. Built in two stages.\(^1\) A. Sandstone masonry pyramid, smooth faced with slope of about 65°, type V,\(^2\) size estimated at about 28.50 m. sq.

B. Sandstone masonry pyramid enclosing A, stepped courses with slope of 69°, type VII, size 51.75 m. sq.

ENCLOSURE Sandstone masonry on double f. c., with re-entrant angles. Front portion destroyed. Type III.

CHAPEL No trace of any chapel associated with superstr. B. Whether one was built in connection with superstr. A cannot be ascertained without further excavation. F.D.

SUBSTR. None.

Stair of 51 steps immediately in front of superstr. B, having its axis 3.10 m. N. of center line of that pyramid. Long flat landing. Masonry

\(^1\) The evidence for an inner and an outer superstr. is convincing. Waddington & Hanbury, Journal of a Visit to Some Parts of Ethiopia, London, 1822, reproduces a drawing facing p. 176 which clearly shows the top of an inner structure protruding from the partially ruined outer pyramid. This is corroborated in a drawing by Linant de Bellefonds, preserved in the Bankes MSS. at the Griffith Institute, Oxford, numbered XVI A 2, Fig. 2a. This drawing was made in 1821 and is almost identical with Waddington & Hanbury’s. Both show an inner structure with smooth faces and truncated apex. Cailliaud, Voyage a Meroe etc., Paris, 1926, on Pl. XLVII gives a map of the Nuri Cemetery in which Nu. 1 is shown with the smaller pyramid within, its center being slightly N. and E. of the center of the outer structure. In 1835 Hoskins, Travels in Ethiopia, p. 165 says of Nu. 1, “It consists of three stages, part of one having fallen, discovers another pyramid underneath. They seem to have added this second pyramid around the inner one, in order to increase its size. . . . “Lepsius, Denkmäler etc. (1842-45), Text v, p. 289 says, “Der grösste ist eine mantelpyramide, deren innere Pyramide eine geglattete Oberfläche hatte. . . .” In Waddington & Hanbury’s day Nu. 1 rose to a height of 103 feet 7 inches above the surface (about 31.6 m.), whereas Reisner in 1916 records its height above the foundation course as about 21 m. The loss by denudation in just under a century has thus been a little more than 10 m., and has resulted in the complete obscuring of the inner structure.

In the light of the above evidence the abnormal position of the stairway is explained. TAHARQA built in the first instance a tomb consisting of a smooth cased pyramid like all those previous to it at El Kurru, having a stairway on its axis which ended far enough E. of the superstr. to allow ample space for a small chapel. Whether this chapel was actually built and may still exist beneath the later structure can only be proved by further excavation. The subterranean chambers, the most elaborate of any in Kushite tombs, may well have been part of the original plan, though it is possible that they have been enlarged. In any case the emplacement for the burial lies, as it should, immediately behind the W. end of this supposed original chapel. Fig. 1b shows the relation of the first pyramid and chapel to the later pyramid, the stair, and the chambers. The second pyramid, for reasons that are not apparent, was not centered on the first structure. It is the first in the long series of royal pyramids to have stepped courses. (See below N.B. under Nu. 36, p. 19.)

At least 1070 stone shawabti figures of TAHARQA in black granite, green serpentine, and alabaster, and numerous fragments of the same. These had originally been ranged standing in at least three rows around the walls of the main chamber B (see Pl. IV b), but the majority were found scattered in various parts of this chamber. Others were found about the entrance and in the corridors N, S, and S 2. The figures varied in height from 25 to 60 cm., and were of five types. With reference to the shawabti typesheet on Fig. 199 these are 11 a, 12 a, 11 b, 11 c (of which there were only 3 examples), and 12 b. The four commoner types occurred indiscriminately through the three materials, but 11 c were all of granite. All figures were inscribed with the text shown on Fig. 200 which covered from 9 to 11 lines running around both sides and front of the body below the arms, but leaving the back blank. Fig. 197, Pl. CXL. Signs were incised on the bases of certain figures as shown on Fig. 6.

52 A few blue fai. cylinder beads.

41 Rim frag. RW. jar, R. wash outside, Bk. inside. Fig. 3.
50 Rim frag. CRW. pot, R. outside, Bk. inside. Fig. 3.
52 A few blue fai. cylinder beads.

1 All the green serpentine figures showed a greyish brown color, even in the breaks, due presumably to the effects of moisture. It was only later, when a sample was taken from one of these figures, that their original brilliant green color was discovered.

DESCRIPTION OF TOMBS

Nu. 35. (5) Fig. 7, Pl. v A. A queen, name not found. Temp. Taharqa (5).

N.B. Reisner proposed identifying this as the tomb of Abar, mother of Taharqa.

Superstr. Small brown sandstone pyramid cased in grey sandstone. Smooth sloping face and no plinth (type v). Size: 6.38 m. sq. on c.t. Enclosure of Nu. 48 built against NW. corner of Nu. 35, the latter being clearly older.

F.D.

Chapel

Grey sandstone masonry preserved in part at S., SE., and N. Type II without re-entrant angles.

Badly decayed grey sandstone with recessed doorway but no pylon (type III). Niche in W. wall. Chapel and enclosure in part overbuilt by later walls. None found.

Figure 7
Stair in front of chapel but running under front of enclosure (type IV), only partly excavated and running under W. face of Nu. 37, which is later in date. No landing: steps extend to face of doorway and continue (4 steps) through to Room A. Entrance doorway unclear, but had two courses of a masonry blocking preserved in front of jambs (type III). Two chambers with 4 steps down from A to B. A. 2.80 X 2.40 m., high roof of uncertain profile, undecorated. B. 6.00 X 3.70 m. with high roof of type II, undecorated. Free standing rock-cut coffin-bench south of axis (type IV), Pl. vB, without cutouts but with alabaster boxes for bed legs (burial method III). Tall deep niche low in center of W. wall (type II).

Burial

Alabaster boxes for bed legs (17-4-224), several stone inlay pieces (possibly from mummy-case), and Canopic jars. Very few small fragments of faience shawabti figures.

DESCRIPTION OF TOMBS

17- 4-212-216 A, in floor debris
224 B, on floor
Not Registered A. Fragments of faience shawabti figures on floor in B.
17- 4-156, 162, 173, 175, 183 Ten misc. inlay pieces and frags. of beryl, alabaster, and grey and brown stone.
157, 193 Frags. of a clear quartzite jug with trefoil mouth, incomplete. Approximate reconstruction Fig. 8.
158, 192, 212, 214 Misc. sherds of RW. both hand- and wheelmade, one bowl frag. Wh. glazed inside and out (192).
159, 190, 215 Frags. of at least 3 FHRW. bowls, wheelmade, mostly RPoL., the rest Wh. glazed.
160 Two frags. of a thick translucent green glass vessel, corroded. 0.8 cm. thick.
161 Lower part of a CRW. bowl, handmade ?, diagonally scratched lines and 2 grooves outside. Fig. 8.
165, 166, 187 One alabaster Canopic jar lid (human head 187) and frags. of two others (jackal 165, hawk 166). Fig. 8, PI. LXXXII D, E, F.
167, 201 Frags. of 2 Canopic jars, Fig. 8, PI. LXXXII C.
168 Broken alabaster object. Fig. 8.
169, 170, 189, 196, 202 Many misc. frags. of alabaster vessels, ca. 0.8 cm. thick, including frags. showing knob handles with tablets.
172 Small quantity gold foil mixed with plaster.
174 Pair of tiny alabaster eyes. Flat seat for iris, no rims, blue cement on back. Fig. 8.
17- 4-180 Sheet gold convex disc with two gold loops soldered to concave side. Fig. 8.
181 One plain gold disc bead. Fig. 8.
184 Disc of FHRW. with incised Christian symbols on one face (perhaps a stamp). Fig. 8.
185 Frag. of brown material (perhaps decayed ivory) with herringbone pattern incised on one face. Length 3.3, width 2.5, thickness 0.3 cms.
186 Three frags. of a large bronze tray.
188 Frag. of an alabaster vase with sawn off top. Fig. 8.
191 Sherd of FHDbW., Wh. glazed inside and out (intrusive?).
197 Rim and neck of an alabaster vase, separately made. Fig. 8.
198 Small piece of brownish flint-like stone.
199 Frags. of a lump of dark green opaque vitreous matter.
203-204 Frag. from base of a FHRW. bowl, Wh. glazed inside and out. Medallion in center inside colored red: stamped relief with ring of circular indentations (intrusive?), Fig. 8, and a rim frag. with internal groove, perhaps from the same vessel.
213 Rim frag. RW. vessel, handmade, R. washed inside, Bk. outside, hatched lines on top of rim.
216 Sherds of a large HRW. vessel, handles at neck, form uncertain.
224 Three alabaster boxes for bed legs. Fig. 8.
1 Not Registered A. A few frags. of very small molded faience shawabti figures, uninscribed. No further details recorded, no photograph.

Nu. 36. (5) Fig. 9, Pl. VI A. Queen Atakhebaskef, wife of TAHARQA (5).

SUPERSTR. First Sandstone masonry pyramid with smooth sloping faces and no plinth (type v), masonry core. Size: 7.50 m. sq. on c.t.
Second Sandstone masonry pyramid with stepped sloping face courses and no plinth (type vii), built over and around first pyramid, with f.c. on a higher level. Size: 11.10 m. sq. on c.t.
ENCLOSURE Sandstone masonry without re-entrant angles (type ii) and built in conjunction with the second superstr. At E. it is built over stair cut and must therefore have been completed after burial and filling of the stair.
CHAPEL Sandstone masonry with recessed door but no pylon (type iii). Niche surmounted by double cornice with discs and uraeae (see Pl. VI A). Traces of inscription on lintel. No trace of decoration on side walls. The chapel is clearly part of the first and smaller superstr. and was incorporated into the second superstr.
F.D. None found.
N.B. The peculiarities of this pyramid may be explained by reference to Nu. 1 (footnote i on p. 7). In the latter case the original structure, smooth faced, was enlarged by the addition of a stepped structure which enveloped it as well (presumably) as its chapel, after the stair had been dug and the substructure excavated. Nu. 36 the tomb of a queen of Taharqa, appears to have been treated in a similar fashion, though here the enlargement did not entirely envelop the chapel. The enclosing wall of Nu. 36 belongs to the enlargement of the pyramid and hence passes over the western part of the staircut, which had already been made in conjunction with the first pyramid.

Substr.  Stair of 45 well-cut regular steps in front of Burial chapel but passing under enclosing wall (access type IV) terminating in a very short, widely flaring landing. Entrance doorway with molding and cornice (type III). (Pl. VI b). Two chambers. A. 3.25 X 2.95 m. with 2 steps down from entrance. Roof of type IV, walls show traces of blue and red ptz. dec. on plaster (illegible); 4 sinkages in floor perhaps to take poles of a canopy. B. 5.25 X 3.95 m. with 4 steps down from A. Roof of type II, walls undecorated but with one niche each at N., W., and S. (type I). No coffin-bench. 8 sinkages in floor to take poles of a canopy.

Elements of gold sheathing and of eyes from mummy-case. Two alabaster Canopic jars and 2 lids. Shawabti figures.

17-2-56 Base frag. FHDb.W. bowl, Wh. and Wh. surface inside divided by Br. Ptd. lines. Fig. 11.

17-2-57 FHDw. round bottomed bowl, Wh. Sl. inside and out, Br. Ptd. Dec. inside. Fig. 11.

17-2-58, 59 Frags. FHDb.W. round bottomed bowl, Wh. Sl. inside, Br. Ptd. Dec. inside. Fig. 11.

17-2-54, 55 All the foregoing appear to be intrusive, of Meroitic or Christian date.

17-2-60 Frag. DbW. bowl, wheelmade, upper part RPol. Fig. 10.

17-2-61-65 Misc. sherds of RW., FRW., and BkW.
17-2-1852 Foot and another frag. from torso of faience shawabti figures, drab body paste.

263 Carnelian faceted double cone bead, decorated with white painted lines. Bored from both ends. Probably intrusive (Meroitic or Christian?). Fig. 11.

1825 Frags. of plaster fallen from walls of A, showing patches of blue and red paint (illegible).

1826, 1827, 1829, 1875 Crumpled gold foil, somewhat thicker than is usual.

1828 Frags. of a sheet of gold leaf, impressed with elements of a design (presumably from gilded mummy-case or canopy). The gold was laid diagonally over the design. Fig. 11.

1830 One turquoise cylinder bead. Fig. 11.

1845 Broken bivalve shell.

1847 Four frags. blue faience, white body paste.

1848-1851, 1857 Misc. sherds of FHDbW., FHRW., and RW., the latter from large wheelmade vessels.

1853 Crude BrW. footed cup, handmade. Fig. 10.

1854, 1859 Frags. of at least 1 RBrW. drum-shaped jar of type shown in Fig. 92 (Nu. 9).

1855 Frag. of a RW. cup (probably with pointed base), rilled outside, wheelmade. Fig. 10.

1856 Upper part of a RW. jar, wheelmade, Fig. 10.

1858 Two horns of a goat?

1860 Two frags. human bone.

1861 Frags. upper part of a RW. jar, rilled outside, wheelmade. Fig. 10.

1862 Grey granite offering-table, inscribed in border and with offerings on a mat in center field. Fig. 12, Pl. LXXII A. (in Merawi Museum No. 10, Khtm. No. 1860).

1863 Cylindrical grey granite base, probably for support under 17-2-1862. Fig. 10.

Presumably the two preceding objects originated in the chapel.

17-2-1782 Alabaster parts of one mummy-eye, pupil missing. Fig. 10.

1873 Frags. of neck and disc rim of an alabaster vessel. Fig. 10.

1876, 1877 One blue glazed faience shawabti figure, and frag. of another, intruded from plundering of Nu. 57. One has cartouche of Queen Pifankher (?).

1888 Alabaster Canopic jar, inscribed to Amset, lid missing. Fig. 10, inscription Fig. 12, Pl. LXXXII G (lid does not belong to this jar).

1889 Alabaster Canopic jar, inscribed to Duamutef, lid missing. Fig. 10, inscription Fig. 12, Pl. LXXXII G (the lid shown does not belong to this jar).

1890 Alabaster lid of Canopic jar; head of Kehehsenuf. Fig. 10, Pl. LXXXII G, H.

1891 Alabaster lid of Canopic jar; head of Hapi. Fig. Pl. LXXXII G, 1.

1892 Frags. of a faded blue faience cup, decorated in relief filled with black color. White bodied paste. Fig. 10, Pl. LXXXVIII D.

1893-1894 Frags. of two more blue faience cups similar to the preceding. Fig. 10, Pl. LXXXVIII D.

1994 Frags. of bronze and iron, perhaps adzes or hoes.

2070 Faience shawabti figures of Queen Atakhebasken. Total found 15 to 17 figures, mostly broken. Type vii d, wig colored black. Coarse white body paste. Molded, but back and sides blade dressed. Inscribed in ink in one vertical column. Height from 11.0 to 11.3 cm. Fig. 198, Inscription Fig. 204, Pl. CXLI.

2072 Two gold ball beads. Fig. 11, Pl. CXIV A: 1/2, 4.

2073 One gold disc bead. Fig. 11, Pl. CXIV A: 1/6.

2074 3 sheet gold cylinder beads. Fig. 11, Pl. CXIV A: 1/1, 3, 5.

2075 Sheet gold amulet: Vulture, incised details, suspension ring at back. Pl. CXIV A: 2/1.

DESCRIPTION OF TOMBS

Nu. 59. (6) Fig. 13, Queen Malaqaye, a wife of Tanwetamani? (6).

SUPERSTR. Destroyed, no trace.
ENCLOSURE Destroyed, no trace.
CHAPEL Destroyed, no trace.
F.D. None recorded.

SUBSTR. Stair of 34 rather irregular steps. Very short flat landing and entrance doorway slightly arched and without moldings (type I). Red sandstone masonry door-block between jambs (type II) associated with the re-use of the tomb. One step down into chamber A. A. 4.00 X 3.20 m. with roof of type IV, undecorated, well and regularly cut. Rectangular sinkage in floor of A. in which were found most of the objects associated with the original burial of Malaqaye, lying in dark organic debris. B. is apparently a later addition of rougher workmanship. 3.70 X 2.20 m. with roof of type III, undecorated. Red sandstone masonry axial coffin-bench. Room B. appears to be unfinished. Reisner noted in the Diary on Feb. 9, 1918: "I believe A. was an older tomb which was enlarged in the later period by cutting of room B. Perhaps the hole (floor sinkage) in A. was made by the makers of the second burial to contain the remnants of the first burial. At any rate the remnants of the first burial were in this hole, while the bones of the second burial lay scattered on the mastaba (coffin-bench). The hole was nearly full of dark brown, largely decayed organic matter. In this dark earth were the bones of a small fully grown female."

BURIAL

In addition to the bones of the first burial, the sinkage in A. contained a silver mummy-mask (18-2-347), silver Canopic figures (18-2-348, 349), 3 sets of mummy-eyes (18-2-315-318), a heart-scarab inscribed with the queen's name (18-2-277), many amulets, beads, etc. Of the second burial in B. only scattered bones were found.

OBJECTS

18- 2-44-46 Stair, in T.D.

268-287 A, from organic dirt in sinkage

288-296 A, siftings from organic dirt in sinkage

347-349 A, from organic dirt in sinkage

362, 363 A, from organic dirt in sinkage

403-405 A, from siftings

591-593 A, from siftings

Not Registered. Shawabti figures found in sinkage in A. and including one intrusive fragmentary figure inscribed with name of Queen Pi hathi (Nu. 54).

18- 2-44 Base of a RW. bell-shaped bowl, wheelmade. Fig. 14.

45 Lower half of a drab-bodied faded green glazed faience shawabti figure, uninscribed, intrusive. Fig. 14.

46 Few scraps of crumpled gold foil.

268, 290a Forty-six carnelian ball beads. Fig. 14, Pl. CXXIII A: necklace.

269, 290c, 591a Thirty-eight beryl ball beads. Fig. 14, Pl. CXXIII A: necklace.

270, 290f Three agate barrel beads. Fig. 14, Pl. CXXIII A: 1/7, 8.

271, 293, 403a, 593a Many faded faience tubular beads, originally green, red, and perhaps blue. Fig. 14, Pl. CXXIII B.

272, 288, 403b, 593b Many faded faience ring beads, mostly red, but a few blue. Fig. 14.

273, 349a, 592 Misc. scraps of gold and silver foil.

274 Worked flint flake 4.4 cm. long.

275 One haematite amulet: head-rest. Fig. 14, Pl. CXXIII A: 2/4.

276, 294h Three quartz amulets: Uraeus. Fig. 14, Pl. CXXIII A: 5/9-11.

277 Green stone heart scarab with 8 lines of incised inscription in the name of Queen Malaqaye. Fig. 14, Pl. CXXIII B.

18-2-278, 292, 591b Twelve Udjat-amulets: 6 crystal, 2 haematite, 3 beryl, and 1 jasper. All are without modelling or incised marking. Fig. 14, Pl. CXXIII A: 2/2, 3; 4/1; 5/1-5; 6/3, 8; 7/4.

279a, b, 294g Four beryl and 2 jasper column amulets. Fig. 14, (279b), Pl. CXXIII A: 4/6, 7; 6/4-7.

279c, 294f Three heart-scarabs, one each of quartz, jasper, and carnelian. Fig. 14, (279c), Pl. CXXIII A: 5/6; 7/1, 3.

279d One jasper refer-aneulet. Fig. 14, Pl. CXXIII A: 4/5.

279e, 294c Four Dj-amulets: two of quartz and one each of red faience and jasper. Fig. 14, Pl. CXXIII A: 4/4; 5/7, 8; 7/2.

279f Two gold tubular terminals. Fig. 14, Pl. CXXIII A: 3/6, 7.

280a; 295d Three crude beryl scarabs, uninscribed. Pl. CXXIII A: 6/2, 9, 10.

280b-d; 295a-c Ten scarab-amulets with spread legs: 4 of haematite, 2 of quartz, 4 of unidentified greenish to grey stones. All have transverse hole in projection on under side. Pl. CXXIII A: 2/5-8 haematite; 4/8-11 misc. stones; 5/12, 13 quartz.

281, 287, 315-318 Three pairs of mummy-eyes in three sizes: bronze frames with inset alabaster whites and obsidian pupils set in plaster, together with separate bronze eyebrows for all six eyes. Fig. 14, Pl. CXXIII C.

282 Misc. frags. of gilded silver (or electrum) sheet metal together with thin wafers of grey plaster which seem to have adhered to their backs. Possibly frags. of Canopic figures like 18-2-348 below, but not clear.

283 Pair of electrum studs. Upper element fitting into lower element. Tiny holes in discs both top and bottom. Fig. 14, Pl. CXXIII B: 3/12, 13.

284, 286, 289 Parts of two or more electrum objects: two flat discs with marks for a ring attached to center, and three convex discs which fit marks on one side of flat discs. Fig. 14.

285 Electrum disc, slightly turned up at edges. Diameter 2.5 cm.

290b One small carnelian ball bead. Fig. 14, Pl. CXXIII A: 1/5.

290d One mottled stone barrel bead. Fig. 14, Pl. CXXIII A: 1/6.

290e Two quartz barrel beads. Fig. 14, Pl. CXXIII A: 1/7, 9.

Not Registered. Shawabti figures found in sinkage in floor in A, as follows:

A. Frags. of perhaps 95 figures, ca. 6.5 cm. in height, of type vi 3 ?, the details of implements too obscure to read. Brownish-drab body paste, traces of thin blue glaze. Half-molded. Fig. 198, Pl. cxli.

B. 7 figures and frags. to a total of ca. 123 figures, ca. 6 cm. in height, type vi 3 d (?), details of implements obscure. Ware, glaze, and technique like A., but form more rounded. Fig. 198, Pl. cxli.

C. One complete figure. Type vi 3 d (but without cord). 6.6 cm. high, projecting plinth up back. Ware, glaze, and technique like A. and B. Fig. 198, Pl. cxli.

D. Feet and lower torso of a figure exactly like Nu. 72, type B. (q.e.) and presumed intruded from there at time of plundering.

E. Foot from an inscribed figure of Queen Pihatis (Nu. 54 q.e.), intrusive here.
NOTE Nu. 71 to 82 (Nu. N.M. 1 to 12).

Tombs Nu. 71 to 82 lie at the extreme north end of the double row of queens' pyramids, north of Nu. 53 and 59 and east of Nu. 61 (see Map). When the first of them were discovered by Reisner, their small size and the absence of superstructures led him to assume that they were private tombs, not royal pyramids, and he sought to differentiate them from the royal series by giving them distinctive numbers, N.M. 1 to 12. N. stood for Nuri and M. for Main Ridge. The later conclusion that they were, in fact, small tombs of royal ladies of the early Nuri period the superstructures of which (presumably small pyramids) had been destroyed, invalidated the distinction originally drawn by Reisner, but the system of numbering once adopted remained unchanged in the Expedition records. For the convenience of users of this publication the writer has deemed it advisable to renumber them here, retaining in parentheses the designations which appear throughout the field records of the Expedition. It is hoped that this change will avoid any possible confusion, as, for instance between N.M. 1 (renumbered Nu. 71), Nu. 1 (tomb of Taharqa), and Meroë North 1 (Beg. N. 1) which will figure in a forthcoming volume.

Nu. 74. (6) (N.M.4) Fig. 15 (with Nu. 73). Name not recovered. Sex presumed female.

SUPERSTR. Destroyed, no trace.
ENCLOSURE Destroyed, no trace.
CHAPEL Destroyed, no trace.
F.D. None recorded.

SUBSTR. Stair of 15 fairly steep steps. Sunk landing with 2 steps and round topped entrance doorway (type II). Door-block of irregular sandstone slabs in front of jambs (type III), (Pl. VII A). One step down into single chamber. A. 3.70 X 2.20 m. with roof of type II, undecorated. Freestanding rock-cut coffin-bench slightly S. of axis. No niche. Chamber broken into at S. by Nu. 73 (see plan).

Scattered human bones (not sexed) (18-2-95, 142) and shawabti figures (18-2-94) constitute the only evidence.

  1033-1035 Sherds of FHRW., R.Sl. outside, Cream Sl. inside with Bk. Ptd. lines. Fig. 20 (1034). Four fitting frags. from a large alabaster vase with the two-feathered cartouches of Tan-wetamani. Fig. 20, Pl. LXXXII B.
  30 Small beryl scarab, uninscribed, strung on gold wire loop. Fig. 20, Pl. CXXIX A: 3/2.
  31 Bluish marble lid of a Canopic jar, beardless human head. Fig. 20, Pl. LXXXII K.L.

These texts have been kindly examined by Georges Posener in the original in Boston, and in the infrared photograph (Pl. CXXVI B) by him and by William C. Hayes of the Metropolitan Museum in New York. They are in accord that the longer inscription should be read: ḫnwy, St[s]l[th], see Gardiner, Onom. ii 6* (317). Posener considers the paleography to indicate a date posterior to Dyn. xx and Hayes thinks it could be late N. K., but apparently earlier than Dyn. xxv.

SUPERSTR. Destroyed, no trace.

ENCLOSURE Destroyed, no trace.

CHAPEL Destroyed, no trace.

F.D. None recorded.

SUBSTR. Short steep stair of ca. 23 steps, only the lowest 9 having been cleared. Upper part of stair not cleared because W. part of Superstr. of Nu. 44 lies over it (hence Nu. 60 must be older than Nu. 44) Short sunk landing with one step and plain round-topped entrance (type II). Roughly laid yellow sandstone masonry door-block in front of jambs (type m). One step down into single chamber. A. 3.90 X 2.60 m. with roof of type II, undecorated. Rock-cut coffin-bench, free-standing and S. of axis (type IV s). No niche.

BURIAL An obsidian pupil from a mummy-eye (18-2-298) is the only evidence apart from the shawabti figures.

298 Obsidian pupil from a mummy-eye, length 2.9 cm., thickness 0.3 cm.
299 Gold button with ring beneath. Fig. 24.
300 One gold barrel bead. Fig. 24.

Temp. ATLANERSA (7).

18- 2-219 Back of a slate (heart?) scarab. The head and the base have been cut off and there remain neither legs nor inscription (Found in debris.) Fig. 22.
220 Few scraps crumpled gold foil.
223 Blue flint flower bead. Fig. 22.

Not Registered. About 389 faience shawabti figures of Yeturow, many in situ in burial chamber (Pl. ix b). Two classes: both unincised.

A. Grey centered white body paste, heavy blue-green glaze. Type V 2 e. Half molded, some with back-pillar and basket incised on back. Originally at least 342 figures. Height from 9 to 9.5 cms. Fig. 198, Pl. CXL.

B. Similar to A but smaller and with flat backs without indication of details. Originally at least 47 figures. Height ca. 6.5 cms. Pl. CXL.

Note also: Heart-scarab of Yeturow 18-2-243 found intruded in Nu. 74 q.e. (Fig. 22).

SUPERSTR.
- Destroyed, no trace.

ENCLOSURE
- Destroyed, no trace.

CHAPEL
- Destroyed, no trace.

F.D.
- None recorded.

SUBSTR.
- Stair of ca. 14 steps in part broken. Sunk landing with 2 steps and round topped doorway (type n). Door-block not preserved. One step down into single chamber.
  A. 5.45 X 3.20 m. with roof of type m, undecorated. No coffin-bench. No niche. Hole broken through into chamber of Nu. 72.

BURIAL
- No evidence.

OBJECTS

| 18-1-184 | A, in debris |
| 216 | Stair, in debris |
| 247 | A, in debris |
| 18-1-184 | Legs of a queen’s type shawabti figure with 7 lines of inscription (name missing). Intrusive, probably from Nu. 58. |

216, 247 About 19 shawabti figures of type vi 3 d, in ware, style and size exactly like those from Nu. 72 q.v. A hole broken through between chambers of Nu. 72 and Nu. 75 makes it apparent that these figures have been deposited here as the result of the plundering of both tombs at the same time. Since the great majority of them were found in Nu. 72 the inference is that they originated in that tomb. (See Pl. cxxi.)

Nu. 3. (8) Fig. 26, Pl. xi A. Tomb of SENKAMANISKEN, son of ATLANERSA (7). Prenomen Shpr-n-Rt.

SUPERSTR.
- Sandstone masonry pyramid with stepped courses laid directly on f.c. Course angle 69°; pyramid angle 66°. Size: 27.59 m. sq. on c.t. Superstr. type vii.

ENCLOSURE
- Sandstone masonry on f.c. Plain. Type n.

CHAPEL
- Sandstone masonry with (apparently) plain doorway of type n. Chapel was built against finished pyramid casing. Deep niche in W. wall with gray granite stela in place (Pl. xi b).

F.D.
- Animal bones (goat?); pottery jars, cups, and pans; sandstone mortar and pestle; stone grinder and rubber; inscribed tablets of metal and stone; inscribed faience cartouche; lumps of copper and lead ore and of resin. Preserved at all four corners in rectangular holes. Pl. xi d.

SUBSTR.
- Stair of 50 steps leading to long slightly sloping landing east of chapel (access type iv). Masonry door-block in part preserved, type m (Pl. xi c). Plain round-topped doorway (type t) leading through recessed jambs to three chambers. A. 3.25 X 3.30 m. with roof of type m, walls inscribed with hieroglyphic texts incised directly in the rock (Pl. xii c,d; xiii A,B,c,d); doorway between A and B inscribed as in A (Pl. xiv A,B). B. 2.90 X 7.55 m. with roof of type m, walls inscribed as in A with texts which Reisner identified as from Book of the Dead, Chap. 125 (Pl. xiv c,d; Pl. xv A-D); molded doorway leads to long passage from B to C with recesses on either side for double doors. C. 6.75 X 4.30 m. with roof of type n, two small niches in each of N., S., and W. walls and a larger niche with ornamental moldings in center of W. wall, Fig. 26, inscribed as in A (Pl. xvi A-D; Pl. xvii A-C). Coffin-bench made of 3 blocks of granite in center of C (type iv). The large niche in W. wall of C descends 95 cm. below floor level. No interior steps in chambers, the floor being level throughout, except where it rises slightly to the W. in room C.

BURIAL
- Inlays from mummy-case (?) and 1 obsidian iris.

105; 17-2-80, 81, 84, 88, 203, 219, 231, 263, 281, 1842, 1960; 17-3-621 Four hundred and twenty-three inlays similar to those fro Nu. 1 (Cf. Pl. IV b,6). They were of green beryl (140), jasper or red glass (12), slate (212), serpentine or grey lapis (49), and bluish haematite (16). They varied in length from 2.0 to 10.0 cm. and were found scattered in the debris from the base of the stair through the three chambers, but were especially plentiful in the T.D. about the entrance.

122 Carnelian uraeus-amulet. Fig. 28.

123 Small alabaster jar with knob handles. Fig. 2
DESCRIPTION OF TOMBS

Nu. 3. (8)

17–282 Eleven frags. of an inlaid hawk eye in slate, ca. 1 cm. thick.

93 Scraps of human bone.

34, 87 Frags. of sheet bronze and a bronze staple.

89 Two frags. of beryl cylinder beads, 1.6 cm. long.

90 Alabaster globular jar with loop handles. The base, separately made and set in, is missing. Fig. 27, Pl. LXXXIX F.

91 Alabaster vase without handles. Fig. 27

93 Rim frags. of a very thin bronze vessel ca. 8 cm. in diameter.

94 Frag. of a blue faience Dd-amulet, white bodied.

95 Frags. from upper part of a large alabaster jar with loop handles. Fig. 27, Pl. LXXXIX G.

96–98 Misc. frags. alabaster vessels.

99–101 Frags. RW. pottery vessels.

10 Broken alabaster Canopic jar with ape-head lid. Fig. 27, Pl. LXXXII M; the head Pl. LXXXII N; the inscription Fig. 27.

111-114 Frags. of at least 4 alabaster vessels.

115 Frags. of an alabaster vase with knob handles. Fig. 27.

116–123, 274–317, 326–373, 637–904, 170–1211 At least 410 serpentine shawabti figures of SENKAMANISKEN, found mostly scattered about the three chambers (8 in A, 329 in B, 73 in C), but a few in place against walls of B and C (Pls. xii A, B). They range in height from 10.9 to 22.8 cm. and are of three types (see Fig. 199); type I 4 a, type I 4 d, and type II 4 d: Pl. cxli. All had the double uraeus on the forehead and were incised with the formula given on Fig. 200, inscrp. A in six lines running around the figure except for a narrow gap at the back. A number have incised marks on the base. Fig. 29.

The objects referred to as cylinder-sheaths, found in a number of the Nuri tombs, are of unknown purpose, and have not been recorded elsewhere. They consist of two parts; (a) a cylindrical tube, closed at the base by a circular disc, and (b) a shorter cylindrical tube open at both ends, fitted with an internal sleeve which projects beyond its lower end and slides inside (a). The decoration of (a) usually features a winged female figure as its main motif, with decorative borders above and below. The decoration of (b) consists of friezes of uraei, ram’s heads, or sometimes hieroglyphs, cartouches, flowers and the like. The upper end of (b) is open. Although the suggestion has been made that these objects may have been cases to contain papyrus rolls, no trace of any contents was found in any example, and the fact that they appear to have remained open at the top renders the suggestion improbable. See sectional drawings of two examples on Pls. xciv H and ciii A.
Type 14 d, with double uraeus; 147 complete and 261 fragmentary, same ware, style, and technique as the preceding, height from 20.0 to 25.0 cm. Incised inscrip. Fig. 200, formula B, Fig. 197, Pl. cxl.

Type III e without uraeus; 374 complete and 51 fragmentary; same ware as above, but hair painted black before glazing. Squared base under feet and pillar up the back. Height from 16.0 to 20.2 cm. Incised inscrip. in 6 lines and 1 column, Fig. 201, formula C, Fig. 197, Pl. cxl.

17-2-1841 Frags. large spherical RW. jar. Fig. 28, Pl. LXXXIV B: 2/3.
1823 Alabaster lid of Canopic jar, head of Amset. Fig. 27, Pl. LXXXII N.
1834 Base of small RW. pot. Fig. 28.
1835 Base of small RW. vessel. Fig. 28.
1837 Faded faience Menat with 8-lobed rosette, 5.8 cm. long.
1898, 1839 Two alabaster vases with knob handles. Fig. 27, Pl. LXXXIX E.
1840 Frags. of a similar vase, somewhat larger.

1843 Frag. of alabaster, apparently a base-plug from a heavy vessel similar to 17-2-90. Fig. 27.

1956 Bronze loop handle like 17-2-265 but heavier.
1958 Obsidian iris from large eye: 5.0 X 4.3 X 1.2 cm. thick.

17-3-622, 623 Fragments of blue faience Menat amulets.
651 Broken model mud brick: 13.5 X 6.8 X 4.5 cm.

17-4-260-276, 277-295; 18-4-146-170, 443-469 The four F.Ds. Register of F.D. types Fig. 29. Pottery from NE. deposit Pl. CXXXIV A, Tablets from SW. deposit Pl. CXXIX A, top row.

Not Registered. Gray granite stela found in situ in chapel. Ca. 73 cm. high, 47 cm. wide, uninscribed, but with Osirid figure in high relief in a niche. See Pl. xi B. Now at Merowe (No. 5), Khartoum catalogue No. 1857.

631 A, on floor

Not Registered. Faience shawabti figures in A, on floor (in situ, Pl. XVIII c)

17-12-36 Two frags. from a large alabaster vessel about 2.1 cm. thick. Not reconstructed.
37 Sherd of RW. with incised dec. outside. Fig. 32.
38a,b; 18-2-49a At least 120 faience ring beads, blue, red, and faded, a few with double holes. Fig. 32 (38a,b).

17-12-38c: 18-2-49b A few faded faience tubular beads. Fig. 32 (38c).
39 A few scraps of gold foil.
40 One blue faience flower pendant. Fig. 32.
42 Forty faience shawabti figures exactly like those below. See Not Registered.
43; 18-2-631 Human female bones including part of a skull.

Not Registered. Faience shawabti figures, originally about 345 examples (of which 40 were registered under 17-12-42 above), mostly from floor of chamber (Pl. XVIII c). All from the same mold. Type v 2 e, with base but no back pillar. Height 6.5 cm. Hard white-centered bluish body paste with heavy blue glaze. Half-molded; back and sides knife-trimmed; cord and basket not indicated on back. Uninscribed. Fig. 198, Pl. CXL.

Nu. 73. (8). (N.M.3) See Fig. 15 (with Nu. 74). Name not recovered. Sex presumed female.

SUPERSTR.

Destroyed, no trace.

ENCLOSURE

Destroyed, no trace.

CHAPEL

Destroyed, no trace.

F.D.

None recorded.

SUBSTR.

Stair of 13 rather steep steps to relatively long flat landing. Entrance doorway plain and round topped, (type I). Remains of masonry door-block in front of jambs (type III), (Pl. XVIII b). One step down into single chamber. A. 3.60 X 1.70 m. with roof of type III, undecorated. Rock-cut coffin-bench along S. wall, attached at S. (type V). No niche.

N.B.

The fact that the chamber is somewhat skewed to the S. and that the coffin-bench has been crowded up against its S. wall (a practice no longer normal at this date) is accounted for by the fact that the chamber of Nu. 73 broke through into the older Nu. 74, during its construction.

No evidence.

Not Registered. Faience shawabti, mostly on floor in A

18-2-164 Frag. of a faience shawabti figure of Class C. (See below Not Registered.)

18-2-165a, 266, 629 A few faience ring and tubular beads, including a few twin ring beads. Fig. 35 (266).
165b Two blue faience beads, one distorted ball and one very short tubular or band bead. Fig. 35.
267 Six frags. of human bone, female.
630 One scrap gold foil.

Not Registered. Faience shawabti figures totaling ca. 298 pieces, mostly on floor of A. Of three classes, as follows:

A. Type V 2 e. Height 9 to 9.5 cm. Total of ca. 152 pieces. Fine white paste with bluish tinge, heavy blue glaze. Half-molded, knife-trimmed at sides. Basket incised on back. Fig. 198, Pl. CXLI.
B. Type V 2 e. Height 7 cm. Total of 61 pieces. Material and glaze like A. Half-molded, knife-trimmed on sides like A. From the same mold as Nu. 76 A. Fig. 198, Pl. CXLI.
C. Type VI 1 b (without cords). Height 6.3 to 7.5 cm. Total of 85 pieces. Soft pale drab paste, heavy blue glaze. Hand cut, each individually: very crude work. Fig. 198, Pl. CXLI.
Nu. 6. (9) Fig. 36, Pl. XIX A. King ANLAMANI, prenomen tAnkh-k-Rr, son of King SENKAMANISKEN (8).

SUPERSTR. Sandstone masonry pyramid on plinth course, with stepped sloping face courses (type IX). Pyramid angle 60°, course angle 64°. Size: 27.90 m. sq. on c. 1.

ENCLOSURE Sandstone masonry with re-entrant angle (type III).

CHAPEL Sandstone masonry of pylon type with round moldings at corners and recessed doorway (type IV). Pl. XIX C. Remains of reliefs on N. interior wall (Pl. XX A, B), and on S. interior wall (Pl. XX C). Large granite stela set in niche in W. wall (see Pl. XIX C) broken but ca. complete. Floor paved.

F.D. Ox bones; sandstone rubber and grinder; pottery jars, cups, and bowls; inscribed faience cups; inscribed stone and metal tablets; faience cartouches; copper and lead ore. In rectangular holes (Pl. XXI A, B) at all four corners.

In addition: under the four corners of enclosing wall were deposits consisting of a model mud brick and a mud statuette (2 Anubis and 2 Thoeris) and in the SE. exterior deposit a large faience Dj-amulet. Pl. XX C (SW. Exterior) and Pl. XX D (SE. Exterior).

SUBSTR. Stair of 57 steps in front of chapel but passing under front of enclosing wall, giving on a long flaring flat landing (Access type IV). Irregular masonry door-block of type III (Pl. XIX B), destroyed in part by thieves. Molded doorway presumably of type III, giving on 3 chambers without steps or thresholds. A, 3.40 X 3.35 m., roof destroyed, traces of painted decoration on walls, molded doorway to B. B, 3.45 X 6.45 m., roof destroyed. C, 6.50 X 4.82 m., roof destroyed, two niches low on each of N. and S. walls, presumed high central niche and two low side niches on W. wall. Granite platform flush with floor south of axis with extension north at its western part (for Canopic chest not found?). Decorated granite sarcophagus in position and some faience shawabti figures in position at NW. corner (Pl. XXI C).

Fully plundered out through break at NE. corner of sarcophagus lid (see Pl. XXI c). Numerous stone inlay pieces and parts of at least one pair of mummy eyes scattered through chambers indicate the original existence of a decorated (wooden?) anthropoid case.

The sarcophagus of ANLAMANI is exhibited in the Merowe Museum (No. 1, 2, Khartoum No. 1868). In 1953 the late Dr. H. H. Nelson and Dr. John A. Wilson of the Oriental Institute, Chicago, made squeezes of the entire texts, which are somewhat condensed parallels to those on the sarcophagus of ASPELTA (Nu. 8) (see Figs. 57 to 68). These squeezes are on deposit at the Museum of Fine Arts, Boston, where they are available to scholars, but in view of their close similarity to the ASPELTA texts it has not been thought necessary to reproduce them here.

DESCRIPTION OF TOMBS

Nu. 21. (g)? Fig. 41, Pl. xxii A. A queen, name not recovered.

NOTE: Reisner proposed identifying this as the tomb of Tekahatamani 1, a wife of Taharqa (5) (Cf. J. E. A., 35 (1949), p. 147 (77), and dated it to the reign of Senkamanisken (8), on the assumption that she survived until then. Since we know the names of at least 7 queens between the reigns of Taharqa and Aspelta (10) whose burial places have not been definitely identified, and since there is strong evidence to show that burial in this tomb was not made until the reign of Anlamani (9) (see below 17-1-547), it seems unwise to make such an assignment with any assurance, although it is a possible one.

1 Macadam in Temples of Kawa I writes the name Dikhetamani, but expresses dissatisfaction with that spelling and proposes the one used here. See his General Index sub. voc.
SUPERSTR. Sandstone masonry pyramid, badly decayed, but clearly with smoothly sloping face and no plinth course (type V). Pyramid angle not recovered. Size: 10.75 m² on c.r.

ENCLOSURE Sandstone masonry without re-entrant angle (type II), its E. wall having been built over stair-cutting after burial. Pl. XXII b.

CHAPEL Sandstone masonry with recessed doorway and no pylon (type m). The W. wall of the chapel lies well within the body of the pyramid, and there remains the lower part of a plain niche. Remains of chapel walls (1 to 2 c.) undecorated.

F.D. None found.

SUBSTR. Stair of 43 steps, well cut and regular, E. of chapel but passing under E. end of enclosure (type IV). Slight flare at W. end and a very short landing. Sandstone masonry door-block in front of jambs (type m) and round topped doorway with traces of molding and cornice, Pl. xxii c. Two chambers both skewed to the S., without thresholds but with 3 steps down into A and 1 step down into B.

A. 3.20 X 3.10 m., with roof of type II, no trace of decoration.

B. 6.70 X 4.30 m., with roof of type II. Walls and roof originally white plastered and painted: faint traces of rows of figures and hieroglyphic inscriptions, roof blue (with stars?). Walls and vault well cut and dressed smooth. Coffin-bench free-standing S. of axis (type IV), rock-cut with super-imposed course of sandstone masonry. 4 small holes in floor at the corners, presumably for poles of a canopy.

BURIAL Completely plundered out. The only definite evidence bearing on the type of burial is one broken alabaster Canopic jar (17-1-695).

Frag. of 5 blue glazed faience Menat-amulets, and one ca. complete amulet (387). Pinkish white body paste. 12-lobed rosette. Decorated on one side only. Pl. CIX A: 2/1.

Sherd of FHDbW., Wh. Sl., incised mark. Fig. 42.

Half white of a small eye, glass paste (?). Stains of bronze frame and of black cementing of pupil. Length 1.8 cm.

Small frag. of a faience offering-table with objects in relief.

Sherd of FHWR., RPol. outside, Y.Sl. and Br. Ptd. Dec. inside. Fig. 42.

Frag. of a FHWR. bowl, R. Sl. inside and out. Wheelmade. Fig. 42.

Rim frag. of a BkW. pot with ledge handle. Handmade, mat impressions outside. Fig. 42.

Misc. frags. from RW. trays or the like, forms not recorded. Handmade.
DESCRIPTION OF TOMBS

Nu. 21. (?)

17-1-319, 324, 355-357, 539, 561, 628, 629, 688-690, 693, 704, 719 Misc. sherds and frags., from RW. vessels, handmade.

321, 322, 391, 392, 423, 627, 692 Frags. of RW. and HRW. vessels, wheelmade, some ribbed. Forms not recorded.

341, 388-390, 422, 535, 536, 696 Misc. frags. of alabaster vessels. Thickness from 0.5 to 3.8 cm.

342 Sherd, FHRW., Y.SI. inside and out, Br.Ptd. Dec. inside. Fig. 42.

349-351 Sherds from large RW. vessel, Bk.Pol. inside, hatched line dec. outside.

352, 427 Neck and other frags. of a BK.W. pot with scored lines inside. Fig. 42 (352).

353 Knob base of a large RW. vessel. Fig. 42.

384, 420 RW. beaker, R.Pol., Y. and blue Ptd. Dec. outside. Fig. 42, and frags. of another.

385, 678 A few blue faience cylinder beads, Fig. 43 (385), and one faience ring bead.

386, 425, 538, 623 Misc. small frags. of blue faience shawabti figures. Small, uninscribed (from original filling of stair, i.e. older than or contemporary with date of the deposit in Nu. 21). Not illustrated in records.

421 Two heavy bronze rings, each with a smaller ring rising vertically from it. Fig. 43.

426, 687 Broken but ca. complete BK.W. pot, mat impressed outside, handmade. Fig. 42, Pl. LXXXV A: 1/1, and rim frag. of another.

428 Sherd of FHRW., Y. Sl., Br.Ptd. Dec. outside. Fig. 42.

537 Base frag. of a HRW. vessel, Wh. Sl., wheelmade. Fig. 42.

538 Mouth and shoulder frag. of a RW. vessel, wheelmade. Fig. 42.

547 Two frags. of a blue faience shawabti figure of Queen ḇasalsa, wife of Senkamanisken (?), with parts of 6 lines of inscription, including the queen's name and title (Cf. Pl. CXL).

Note: The finding of this figure in the original filling of the stair poses an interesting problem as to the correct date of this tomb. With such a provenance the object cannot well be later in date than the filling in of the stair — that is, the date of the burial. ḇasalsa (Nu. 24) is known to be the mother of Anlamani (g) and Aspelta (?), and her shawabti are inscribed "King's Mother", indicating that they were made during the reign of one of these kings. Therefore it is difficult to reconcile this find with a date for Nu. 21 previous to the reign of Anlamani. It is, however, quite possible that Nu. 21 may have been built in the previous reign (and so conform archaeologically to that date) although not utilized until later. Reisner's tentative identification with Tekahatamani is not unreasonable: if she were quite young at the death of Taharqa and died early in the reign of Anlamani, she would have been about 60 when she died.

17-1-548, 549 Bronze kohl-stick. Fig. 43, and a smaller one, bent.

550 Bronze staple. Fig. 43.

552, 554 Misc. frags. of greenish faience, including two cylindrical pieces 1 cm. in diameter.

553 Frags. of an object of green glass paste or frit. Fig. 43.

555 Bronze fitting. Fig. 43.

556, 557 Two gold gieroglyphs: reed-leaf 0.25 cm. thick, and p 0.05 cm. thick. Both Pl. CXVIII D: 1/1, 2/1.

559, 618 Two frags. of large inscribed queen's shawabti figures, not identifiable.

560, 683 One broken beryl inlay piece, another of lapis, and 2 of slate.

619-621 Misc. scraps thin greenish translucent glass (vessel?), blue plaster, yellow enamel (?), and one carnelian ball bead of .7 cm. diameter (620).

624 Frag. from a blue glazed faience offering table, white bodied.

631 Large RW. globular bottle, wheelmade in two halves, neck inserted. Fig. 42.

675, 677, 703 Ca. 20 frags. of at least 12 white bodied blue glazed shawabti figures, perhaps those originating in this tomb. None are complete, but they were ca. 9 cm. high and both male and female heads are represented. One frag. shows a back pillar and plinth under foot, none are inscribed.

Note: This type occurs in Nu. 22 (g), Nu. 41 (8), Nu. 53 (7), Nu. 81 (8), and Nu. 82 (8). Nu. 81 contained male figures, larger than those from Nu. 21. Nu. 53 and Nu. 82 had figures of approximately the same size. The type has a range of (7) to (9), and if these fragments, all of which were found in the chambers, are from the original deposit, they tend to confirm the date range of this tomb indicated on other grounds.

Another fragment shows the head and upper torso of a female figure with arms raised, carrying something (a basket?) on the right shoulder. Details incised on back. Hair colored black both front and back. Fig. 43.

17-1-679, 681, 701 Eight scraps of bronze.
682 Six frags. of blue pigment.
685, 702, 718 Frags. of a FRW. amphora, Db. Sl. Fig. 42.

17-1-686 Frag. flat base of a CRW. vessel, R. washed inside.
694 Alabaster tablet of F.D. type, uninscribed. Fig. 43.
695 Alabaster Canopic jar, uninscribed, broken, Fig. 42, Pl. LXXXIII d.
697 Frags. of at least 4 alabaster vases with handles of 4 types. Fig. 42.
699 A few frags. from body of a thin translucent pale green glass bottle (blown?).
Nu. 22. (g) Fig. 44, Pl. xxii d. A queen, name not recovered.

NOTE: Reisner proposed identifying this as the tomb of Amanimalé (his Amanmalenra?), presumed to be a wife of Senkamaniskeñ (8) and to have been buried by his successor Anlamani (g).

SUPERSTR. Sandstone masonry pyramid on exceptionally thick f.c., but without plinth. Stepped sloping face courses, badly worn (type VII). Size: 10.75 m. sq. on c.t.

ENCLOSURE Sandstone masonry of type II, built over stair-cut after filling of latter.

CHAPEL

F.D.

SUBSTR.

Sandstone masonry of type II or possibly III, with remains of walls of an ante-chamber to the E., the latter extending over the stair-cutting, and hence must have been added after the burial. Deep niche in W. wall with cornice above. No trace of decoration. None found.

The only record of plan and section is a sketch without scale (reproduced in Fig. 45). Either no measured drawing was ever made, or if made cannot be found. Stair of 36... well-cut steps E. of chapel but passing under ante-chamber and enclosing wall (type IV). Moderately short flat landing. Door-block of carefully fitted sandstone masonry in front of jambs (type III) Pl. xxiii E. Round topped doorway without cornice (type I) broken by thieves. Two chambers, with 2 steps down into A, and one step down into B, no thresholds. Free-standing rock-cut coffin-bench in B, apparently slightly S. of axis. The similarity in type and arrangement to the substr. of Nu. 21 is striking.

Burial

Burial of type IV. Evidence of mumification; the obsidian pupil from a mummy-eye (17-4-35) and a gold plate, presumably once covering the abdominal incision (17-4-79).

DESCRIPTION OF TOMBS

17-1-590, 596; 17-3-617, 618 Frags. of misc. handmade RW. vessels, mostly bowls. Not reconstructed.

592 Two frags. from a RPol. hard baked indetermine vessel, with blackened rim, similar to Nubian BKT ware.

593 Base frag. of a small vessel of FHDbW., Y.Sl. inside.

17-3-613 Frags. of a shallow soft baked RBrW. dish, handmade. Fig. 46.

614, 615 Frags. of two FHRW. bowls, wheelmade, Fig. 46 (614).

616 Frags. of a RW. drum jar, wheelmade, incomplete. Apparently the two halves separately turned and joined before firing. Fig. 46 (approximate only).

619 Base frags. of 3 wheelmade RW. jars, type of Fig. 46.

626 Many frags. of large bronze tray, badly crushed. Seen in situ on PI. XXII E. Fig. 46.

17-4-8, 9 Forty-eight blue faience barrel beads and 3 small blue faience ring beads.

10 Blue glazed faience Menat-amulet. White body paste, 16-loped rosette, inscribed on both sides with names of King ANLAMANI. Fig. 46, Pl. cxix A: 3/3.

23 Lower part of a serpentine shawabti of TAHARQA.

24 Small wheelmade RW. beaker. Fig. 46.

25, 34, 43, 62 Misc. crumpled frags. gold foil.

26 A frag. of bent sheet bronze.

Obsidian pupil from a mummy-eye. 3 × 2.05 × 0.7 cm.
Gold necklace terminal. Fig. 46.
Alabaster vessel frags. of thickness 0.8 to 1.9 cm.
Ffrags. of ca. 9 small wheelmade RW. beakers. Fig. 46 (77).
Rectangular gold plate with incised Udjat-eye on one face.
Gold implement. Fig. 46, Pl. cxviii d: 1/3.
Fragments of a silver bowl, crushed and corroded, apparently fluted. Too far gone for measurement or reconstruction. In situ on Pl. xxii F.
Three corroded pieces of silver rods or pins.
Bronze cup, crushed. Fig. 46. Seen in situ on Pl. xxii F.
Faience shawabti figures from T.D. in stair, from debris in A and B, and from walls of B. A few in situ on Pl. xxii F. 187 complete and frags. of ca. 90 more: total at least 277 figures. All of type v 3 e, identical with the figures from Nu. 41 and probably made in the same mold. Dark blue-grey body paste. Uninscribed, with back pillar and plinth. Height 15.0 cm. Fig. 198, Pl. cxxi.

Nu. 23. (g) Fig. 47, Pl. xxiii A. Queen? Masalaye, probably a wife of SENKAMANISKEN (8), probably buried under ANLAMANI (9).

SUPERSTR. Sandstone masonry pyramid with stepped sloping face courses but no plinth course (type vii). Course and pyramid angles not recorded. Size: 10.25 m. sq. on c.1.

SUBSTR. None found.

ENCLOSURE Sandstone masonry, without re-entrant angles (type ii).

CHAPEL Sandstone masonry, plain with recessed doorway (type iv). Narrow niche in W. wall empty. Side walls denuded and no trace of decoration.

F.D. None found.

Stair of 34 steps, well cut and of nearly uniform width, E. of Chapel (type iv). Medium flat landing. Sandstone masonry door-block in front of jambs (type iii). Plain round-topped doorway (type i). Two chambers with 2 steps down into A and 1 step down into B. A. 3.20 × 2.50 m., roof of type ii, traces of painted decoration on E. wall on both sides of entrance: below, yellow band between black lines; above, traces of red and blue color. B. 4.80 × 3.30 m., roof of type ii, no traces of decoration, no coffin-bench or niche.
No evidence for type. Two gold finger-caps indicate mummification.

17-3-453

454, 530, 537, 564 Misc. frags. from alabaster vessels, not reconstructed.

455, 499, 531, 538, 565, 601, 602, 607, 625 Misc. scraps crumpled gold foil.

491, 497, 498, 658 Misc. frags. of faience shawabti of type iv 1 d, representing parts of several figures of Queen Nasalsa (Nu. 24), intruded here in the course of general plundering.

492, 522 Common RW. sherds, one with incised mark. Fig. 48 (492).

493 Upper part of a RW. pot, wheelmade. Fig. 48.

495 Two rim frags. of a RW. jar. Fig. 48.

Nu. 8. (to)  King Aspeleta, Prenomen Mr-Kr;-Rr son of Senkamanisken.

SUPERSTR. Sandstone masonry pyramid on plinth course, with stepped sloping face courses (type IX). Pyramid angle 65°, course angle 73°. Size 27.45 m. sq. on c.1.

ENCLOSURE Sandstone masonry with re-entrant angle (type m).

CHAPEL Simple masonry chapel, east end destroyed but presumed to have had pylon and recessed doorway (type IV?). No trace of wall decorations preserved, except broken lintel block Fig. 76, Pl. xxiv b,c; empty niche at W. end presumed to have contained stela found in Nu. 100 (see below, note, p. 81).

F.D. Ox bones; mortar and pestle; sandstone rubber and grinder; pottery jars, cups, and dishes; inscribed stone and metal tablets; inscribed faience tiles and cartouches; inscribed faience cups; copper ore. At all four corners of pyramid in square holes, each with two mud bricks laid over the deposit.

SUBSTR. Stair of 64 steps, partly laid in masonry, in front of chapel and enclosing wall, giving on a short flat landing which was widened immediately in front of entrance (access type IV). Masonry door-block in front of jambs (type III) in part preserved; molded doorway (type III) Pl. xxv A. Three chambers (type v c) without steps or thresholds in doorways. A 3.00 X 3.10 m. lined with inscribed sandstone slabs and with roof of type m largely collapsed. Pl. xxv a,c. Inscriptions Figs. 56, 71, 72, Pls. xxvi, xxvii, xxviii A,B. B. 3.70 X 5.60 m. lined with inscribed sandstone slabs and with roof (now completely collapsed) of type m, paved floor. Inscriptions, Fig. 73, 74, Pl. xxviii c-r, xxix. C. 6.60 X 4.60 m. lined with inscribed sandstone slabs and with roof of type m, paved floor. Granite sarcophagus sunk in pavement and south of axis (see below, unregistered c), north of which is a masonry bench presumed to take the sarcophagus lid before burial. Large low niche set in false molded doorway with cornice at center of W. wall, two smaller niches on each of the four walls (type i). Inscriptions Fig. 75, Pl. xxx-xxxii, xxxiii A,B.

BURIAL Completely plundered out, type viii. Evidence for details of burial are scanty, but include part of a mummy eye, a few inlays and several gold bands, indicating a decorated anthropoid mummy-case.

11. Base gold, fragmentary. After cleaning, Pl. CIV A,B.

13. Two base gold cylinders similar to above group. After cleaning, Pl. CVII A,B.

Owing to the crushed and corroded condition of many of these objects, it was necessary to clean them electrolytically before they could be adequately recorded. In the process much detail of the incised decoration, originally obscured, was clarified, but conversely, some parts were too far corroded to be preserved through the cleaning process and were lost. Many of these objects were drawn in the field by the late W. G. Kemp soon after they were found. Of the cylinders which came to Boston (a-f,h,j-o) those were drawn by Miss Suzanne Chapman after cleaning which had not been drawn by Mr. Kemp, or for which his drawings appeared inadequate because their detail had been then too obscured for full recording. Twelve of the above have been photographed after electrolytic cleaning. Pls. XCVI to CVII.

Ten alabaster vases in situ on Pl. XXXIV A,B. (group x.3), as follows:

1. Veined stone, broken, incomplete. Fig. 53, Pl. LXXXIX 1,2.

276 or more complete figures and fragments to a total of about 108. All of type IV 3 d. Height 18 to 21 cm. Pale blue glaze, soft grey body paste. Of two kinds; type A, the better made and glazed are inscribed in 7 lines which begin at a double vertical line in center of back and have a single cartouche near center of first line. PI. CXLII; type B, poorer in fabric and more decayed, also with inscription in 7 lines, but divided down center front and with cartouches in both line 1 and line 7, incisions black filled, PI. CXLII. Type B was also found in Nu. 42, 54, and 55, in each case with the appropriate name in the cartouches. Fig. 198, Inscription Fig. 205.

SUPERSTR.
Sandstone masonry pyramid on plinth course, with stepped, sloping face courses, largely destroyed (type IX). Size: 5.90 m sq. on c.t.

ENCLOSURE
Sandstone masonry, preserved only at W. side and at SW. corner.

CHAPEL
Completely destroyed.

F.D.
None found.

SUBSTR.
Stair of 29 well-cut steps in front of chapel site (access type IV). Sunk landing with 3 steps and round topped doorway (type II). Door-block destroyed. Two chambers without steps or thresholds. A. 3.50 X 2.90 m. with roof of type III, undecorated. B. 4.30 X 3.30 m., cased in good sandstone masonry.

BURIAL
Without trace of painting or inscription (Pl. xxxix c). Roof of type III. No coffin-bench or niche.

Clear evidence of mummification and method of burial: Bead net, gold finger or toe caps, inscribed gilded bands and remains of Canopic figures, mummy-eyes in at least two sizes, and several frags. of plaster with textile impress suggesting cartonage.

174 Rim frag. globular BkW. pot with flaring rim, R. washed outside. Not drawn, diam. ca. 20 cm.
175–177 Sherds from one or more RW., R. washed pots similar in form to 18–1–174.
178 Sherds of HRW., wheelmade, not reconstructed.
179 Frag. of an alabaster vase. Fig. 88.
180, 181 Frags. of a FHRW. bowl, Wh.Sl. inside and out. Fig. 88 (181).
182, 292 3 alabaster whites from two mummy-eyes of the same size. Pl. CXXI E: bottom row. (Cf. obsidian pupils of these 18–1–221 below.)

18–1–215, 227, 246, 293, 327 Shawabti figures and frags. of Asata, the rest of which, found in situ in B, are described under 18–4–541, q.v.
218, 240, 244, 257, 285, 286, 288, 322–324, 380, 381, 385, 457–459; 18–2–72, 74, 75, 78, 129–133, 181, 184, 196, 197, 215–217, 239 Scattered elements of a mummy-net as follows: Diamond mesh net strung on braided silver wire; alternating rows of gold, beryl, and green faience tubular beads, separated at junctions by gilded silver ball beads, and with a border at base of alternating gilded silver and beryl pendants. The silver wire runs vertically down through these pendants, which are bored throughout their length, and is held in place by a transverse pin passing through the pendant near its upper end. Units found: Pendants: 5 gilded silver, 3 beryl. Tubular beads: 220 gilded silver, 129 beryl, 334 faience. Ball beads: 64 gilded silver and many fragments. Braided wire, fragments only. Bead and pendant units Fig. 88, reconstructed net Fig. 88, Pl. CXXII A: upper right.
220, 232, 233, 241, 258, 325, 382, 462; 18–2–76, 137, 192, 214 Many frags. of a gilded silver band, and other objects of the same material, not identifiable. The band was 2.9 cm. wide and ca. 0.05 cm. thick and was pierced along both edges at infrequent intervals for attachment. The total cumulative length of the better preserved pieces is now ca. 45 cm., but the band must once have been longer. About half the fragments have lost their gilding, but still show faint traces of inscription. On the fragments on which the gilding remains the inscription is legible. Fig. 88, Pl. CXXI D: left.
221 Two obsidian eye pupils, one broken (belong with 18–1–182, 292 above, q.v.).
222–224 Broken RW. beaker, handmade, and frags. of 2 others. Fig. 88 (222).
225 Faded blue faience beaker, found inside 18–1–222. Fig. 88.
226 Frag. of bronze frame from large mummy-eye, length 5.8 cm.
228; 18–2–213 Two hemispherical bell pendants of electrum: ring at top, re-enforced band around base. Fig. 88 (228), Pl. CXXII B: 3/2.3.
Electrum brooch in form of Hathor-head on aegis, spring hook at back. Hollow metal with back plate. Fig. 88, Pl. cxvii b: 2/4.

Three fittings frags. of a sheet electrum Canopic figure; incised details and two holes for attachment. Fig. 88.

About 20 small frags. of thin grey plaster showing the impress of textile on one side.

Fifty-three ball beads of serpentine, agate, and mottled grey stone. Diameters from 0.9 to 1.0 cm. Fig. 88 (284), Pl. cxxi d: bottom, right.

Oxidized bronze concave disc. Diameter 1.3 cm., Pl. cxvii b: 1/1.

Sheet gold amulet: cow with disc and horns. Pl. cxvii b: 2/5.

Pair of small obsidian eye pupils. Pl. cxxi e: 2/1, 2.

Three sheet gold amulets representing three of the four Canopic genii, Dua-mwt-f, Hapi, and Amset respectively. 3.4 cm. high. Pl. cxvii b: 1/3-5.

Curved piece of gilded silver, perhaps an eyebrow from mummy-case. Pl. cxxi e: 1/3.

Alabaster and obsidian mummy-eye, smaller than the one noted above (18-1-182 etc.). Pl. cxxi e: 2/3.

Silver ferule. Fig. 88, Pl. cxxi e: 1/2.

Small frag. pink plaster with blue paint on surface.

Two quartzite barrel beads. Fig. 88 (81), Pl. cxxi d: bottom, right.

Nu. 58 Plan and Sections

SUPERSTR. Destroyed, no trace.

ENCLOSURE Destroyed, no trace.

CHAPEL Destroyed, no trace.

F.D. None recorded.

SUBSTR. Short steep stair of 16 steps, flaring irregularly. Sunk landing of one step with ledge on each side and plain round-topped doorway (type II). No door-block remains, but a sinkage in floor in front of jambs may have been for its base. One step down in entrance and another into single chamber which is skewed to the S. A. 4.85 X 3.10 m. with roof of type III. Roof and walls originally plastered and painted: traces remain of red outline lozenges on vault, and of vertical bands of inscription on walls, now quite illegible. Sinkage in floor, south of axis, for coffin which is missing. No niche.

BURIAL No evidence other than coffin emplacement and shawabti figures.

SUPERSTR. Sandstone masonry pyramid on plinth course, with stepped sloping face courses too weathered for measurement (type IX). Size ca. 27.50 m. sq. on course 1.

ENCLOSURE Sandstone masonry with re-entrant angle (type m), preserved in one place to a height of three courses.

CHAPEL Sandstone masonry without pylon. Doorway not clear, but perhaps with recesses (type m?). Niche in west wall but no stela. No record or trace of reliefs. Pl. XL B.

F.D. Ox bones; mortar and pestle; rubber and grinder; pottery jars, cups, and dishes; inscribed stone and metal tablets; inscribed faience titles and cartouches; uninscribed faience cups; copper ore. At all four corners of pyramid in square holes, each with several sandstone blocks laid over the deposit. Pl. XL E,F.

BURIAL Completely plundered out; type unclear. A large number of stone inlays and at least 4 mummy-eyes of two different sizes indicate the original presence of two anthropoid decorated coffins, presumably of wood.

420 Two fragments from an alabaster vessel, one of which is inscribed. Surface weathered but inscription is legible. Fig. 97, Pl. LXXX J.

The provenance of this piece gives no assurance that it originated in this tomb. The name of the “General Pashedenbastet deceased, son of King Sheshonk” would indicate a connection with one of the kings of the 22nd or 23rd Dynasties of Egypt. The wording of the inscription fixes the vase to a date subsequent to the death of Pashedenbastet. If he were a son of one of the later Sheshonks (iv or v) the vessel may well be dated after 700 B.C., and there would be nothing surprising in finding it as part of the equipment of a tomb at Nuri of generation (5) or even somewhat later. It seems probable to the writer that this interesting fragment represents a vessel imported from Egypt, perhaps as tribute taken by Taharqa or one of his successors from royal storehouses in that country, and deposited in one of the earlier tombs at Nuri. The extent of the plundering in the royal cemetery makes it easy to see how it passed, in the form of fragments, into a tomb of considerably later date.

17-3-421 Frag. of a RW. jar similar to 17-3-364 (Nu. 17 q.v.) but with rolled rim.

242, 243 Two rim frags. from FHRW. bowls, 242 with Br.Ptd.Dec. on Wh.Sl. outside. Fig. 97. 243 with Br.Ptd.Dec. on Wh.Sl. inside. Fig. 97.

424, 425 Base and rim frags. of FHRW. bowl, Wh.Sl. or glaze inside and out.

426 Frags. of at least 6 small FHRW. bowls, of which 4 have R.Sl.

427 Heavy wheelmade RW. sherd with incised dots outside.

428 Rim frag. of a tray or dish with hatched rim. Ware?

429, 456 Two frags. of globular RW. vessels, one R.Pol., the other Wh.Sl.

440 Silver kohl stick. Fig. 97.

A. Seven pottery vessels from chapel. Later intrusions from period of occupation as a dwelling place. 4 in situ on Pl. XLI 8. These objects were not drawn nor entered in the Object Register, but Reisner noted in the Diary for March 13, 1917, that one was a lamp FHDB.W. with 2 small wick-holes in the central part, and that such lamps found by him in Lower Nubia (Arch. Survey of Nubia) were Christian, to be dated 800-1000 A.D. or even later.

B. “Small coffin-eye” from debris in A. This entry in the Diary of March 16, 1917, is the only record of this object which was neither drawn, photographed, nor numbered.
DESCRIPTION OF TOMBS

Nu. 39. (ii) Fig. 98, Pl. XLII A. Queen Malētaseñ, wife of Amtalqa (ii)

SUPERSTR. Sandstone masonry pyramid on plinth course, upper courses too damaged for description (almost certainly type IX). Size 10.50 m. sq. on C.I.

ENCLOSURE Sandstone masonry. Preserved only at N. W. corner. Type not established.

CHAPEL Sandstone masonry with recessed doorway and no pylon (type III). Niche in W. wall. No trace of wall decoration.

F.D. None found.

SUBSTR. Stair of 35 steps to short flaring landing in front of chapel (access type IV). Sunk landing with 3 steps and simple round-topped doorway (type II). Rough masonry doorblock in front of jambs (type III) largely destroyed, Pl. XLII b. Two chambers with one step down into A and 3 steps down into B. A. 3.20 × 2.70 m. with roof of type III, undecorated. B. 5.00 × 3.00 m. with roof of type III and walls faced with masonry which showed traces of painted decoration (parts of a standing female figure in red, yellow and black) and of inscriptions in black. No coffin-bench or niche.

BURIAL Two frags. of mummy-eyes (of two sizes?) (18-1-45, 46) are, apart from faience shawabti figures, the only evidence found.

OBJECTS

- 17-12-112  Stairway, in T.D.
- 18-1-43-47  B, in debris
- 48-51  B, in floor debris
- 378  B, in floor debris
- 18-4-539  Faience shawabti figures in B, many in situ along walls
- 17-12-112  Tapering bone or ivory rod, both ends broken, thought by Reisner to be Christian (see Diary, Dec. 30, 1917). Length 10.5 cm.
- 18-1-43, 44  R.W. dish, wheelmade, irregular, Fig. 99 (43), Pl. LXXXIV c.1/2, and frag. of another.
- 45, 46  Frag. of alabaster white from a mummy-eye (45), and frag. of obsidian pupil from an apparently larger one (46).
- 47, 51  Scraps of crumpled gold foil.
- 48, 50, 378  Frags. of 9 or more RW. dishes, wheelmade. Fig. 99 (48).

Nu. 54. (11) Fig. 100.

Fig. 100. Attributed to a queen Pihatis' Temp. AMTALQA (11).

SUPERSTR.

Sandstone masonry pyramid on plinth course with stepped, sloping face courses (type ix). Destroyed above c.2. Size: 4.70 m. sq. on c.1.

ENCLOSURE

Sandstone masonry, type ii.

CHAPEL

Sandstone masonry. N. wall mostly and S. wall partly preserved: front destroyed. There was no pylon and the chapel was unusually long and had a niche at W., type ii or iii.

F.D.

None found.

SUBSTR.

Stair of 19 steps E. of superstr. but partly under chapel (access type v). Very short flat landing and plain square-topped doorway. Remains of sandstone masonry door-block of unusually large blocks roughly laid between jambs but protruding (type ii?) (not photographed). One step down into single chamber (type va). A. 3.90 x 2.00 m. with flat roof (type iii), undecorated. No coffin-bench or niche.

OBJECTS

- 18-1-294-304  Stair, in T.D. outside door-block
  - 384  A, in floor debris
  - 465  A, in floor debris
  - 466  Surface debris, W. of superstr.
  - 18-1-294  Faience amulet: four-headed ram, pierced transversely between legs: dark greenish grey color. Fig. 100.
  - 295  Beads as follows:
    - (a) Twenty faded faience tubular beads. Fig. 100.
    - (b) Sixteen faded faience ring beads. Fig. 100.
    - (c) One gilded silver (or electrum?) ball bead, originally paste filled: thin shell construction with butt-joint. Fig. 100.
    - 296  About 8 frags. of a gilded silver band of ca. 2 cm. width, apparently from mummy-trappings, not inscribed.
    - 297  Three scraps plaster painted blue.

Figure 100
Nu. 54. \((\text{ii})\)

Two alabaster half-eyes (not from same eye, but of the same size) and an obsidian pupil to fit a somewhat smaller eye. Fig. 100 a-c.

Frag. of a RW. hemispherical bowl, handmade. Showing ancient repair. Fig. 100.

Two sherds, one of RW. used as a scraper, the other of FHRW. with Wh. glaze. Not reconstructed.

Three small alabaster vases with dummy handles. Fig. 100, Pl. LXXX K.

5 frags. of corroded silver, showing traces of gilding: not from a band as they are heavy concavo-convex pieces. Not recognizable. ca. 1 m/m. thick.

Frag. of a faience plaque, blue glazed, grey body paste. Not drawn.

NOTE: Reisner assigned this tomb to a queen of AMTALQA \((\text{ii})\) whose name he believed could be read on shawabti figures found in Nu. 57.\(^1\) These figures were 11 (including frags.) in number, of poor quality, and of a type which was also found in Nu. 39, 40, 42, 45 and 55. This type is illustrated on Pl. CXII: row 2, nos. 11, 13 and 19; row 3, no. 2. The figure of Queen Pihatis is no. 19. The name of this queen is not legible on the photographs, and only one example of the name is available to the writer for checking.\(^2\) Reisner's reading is recorded only in his field notes, and was evidently somewhat tentative, since these notes indicate considerable uncertainty in the reading of some of the signs. It must, therefore, be accepted with reserve. Reisner's readings are reproduced in Fig. 206, where the reading on the frag. from Nu. 59 is also given in facsimile.

Reisner's reason for assigning Nu. 54 to this queen was the following: Nu. 54 corresponds closely in archaeological type to the dates \((10-12)\), and by position is clearly later than Nu. 40 \((10)\). The distinctive shawabti figures referred to have been found inscribed with the following queens' names only: Madike\(\text{n} \,(\text{io})\) of Nu. 27, Makmale \((\text{io})\) of Nu. 40, Asata \((\text{io})\) of Nu. 42, Atmataka \((\text{ii})\) of Nu. 55, and Pihatis. It is evident that these distinctive figures must have been made during generations \((10-12)\) and \((\text{ii})\), and since they were made for Pihatis she must have been buried during that time. As the only queen's pyramid falling within the required period for which we have no evidence as to the owner's name is Nu. 54, it seems probable that Nu. 54 belonged to Pihatis.

1. Two other tombs at Nuri, Nu. 25 and Nu. 38, contained shawabti figures of queens other than the owner, but of the same period, which seem to have been part of the original deposit at the time of burial. As in Nu. 57, this appears to have been due to carelessness or illiteracy on the part of the undertakers' establishments.

2. It should be noted that one figure, labelled Pihatis which was deposited by the Sudan Antiquities Department in the Ashmolean Museum, Oxford (1922:51) was examined by the writer, who read on it the name of Pi\(\text{r} \text{ankh-jer} \,(\text{Nu. 57})\) and not Pihatis. The one example of the name which can be read is on a frag. from Nu. 59 (see there under Not Registered E).

Nu. 55. \((\text{ii})\) Fig. 101. Queen Atmataka, a wife of AMTALQA \((\text{ii})\).

SUPERSTR. Sandstone masonry pyramid on plinth course with stepped, sloping face courses \((\text{type ix})\). Preserved in part to c.2. Size: 6.10 m. sq. on c.1.

ENCLOSURE Sandstone masonry, incomplete at E. but clearly of type ii. The S. side of enclosing wall is common to Nu. 55 and Nu. 42, and the wall seems to have been completed for F.D.

CHAPEL Sandstone masonry. Traces of two side walls only; front missing. No niche. Type ii or iii. \((\text{No levels recorded for chapel or enclosure.})\)

None found.
SUBSTR. Stair of 30 steps E. of chapel (access type IV). Widely flaring W. end and sunk landing of 3 steps through plain round-topped doorway (type II). Door-block destroyed. Step down into A. and level floor through 2 chambers (type v b). A. 3.30 X 2.80 m. with roof of type III, undecorated. B. 4.40 X 3.30 m. with roof of type III, originally lined with masonry to spring of vault, of which lining ca. 2 courses remain, Pl. XLII E. No trace of inscription or decoration on lining blocks. No coffin-bench. No niche.
Frags. of mummy-eye (18-1-208, 756), frags. of gilded electrum bands (18-1-210, 261, 754), and frags. (probably) of a Canopic jar (18-1-209) constitute the only evidence of mumification. Cf. also heart scarab of Atmataka found intruded in Nu. 47 (not registered) q.v.

208 Obsidian pupil from mummy-eye, diameter ca. 2.8 cm, thickness 0.8 cm.

209 Two frags. of a heavy alabaster jar, 2.8 cm. thick. Apparently a Canopic jar. Not reconstructed.

210, 261a, b Five fragments of gilded sheet electrum, of which one appears to show an original width of 1.85 cm.

211 Frag. of one beryl tubular bead of 0.6 cm. diameter.

212, 261c Few scraps of crumpled gold foil.

260 Two faded faience tubular beads Fig. 102, frags. of a silver tubular bead and a scrap of silver wire.

263, 438 Frag. of an alabaster vessel, not reconstructed.

207 Two frags. of a CRW. oval offering-tray, R. washed inside, mat impressed outside, hatched on rim. Thickness 0.8 to 1.8 cm. Not reconstructed.

430 Frag. of a FHRW. bowl, R. glazed inside and out, groove below rim. Fig. 102.

432 Ring base of a HRW. wheelmade vessel. Diameter of base 7 cm. Not reconstructed.

433, 434 Two sherds of FHRW. Wh. glazed, Br. Ptd. Dec., Coptic (?). Fig. 102.

354 Frags. of a large RW. jar, ribbed, wheelmade. Fig. 102.

Three scraps sheet silver, 3 small frags. human bone, one-half of an alabaster mummy-eye (length 5.7 cm.), and a small frag. of worked limestone.

Frags. of a CRW. oval offering-tray, R. washed inside, mat impressed outside, hatched on rim. Thickness 0.8 to 1.8 cm. Not reconstructed.

Fig. 102.

Ring base of a HRW. wheelmade vessel. Diameter of base 7 cm. Not reconstructed.

Fig. 102.

Ring frag. of a BkW. globular pot, R. washed outside, Bk. inside. Incised mark inside. Coptic. Fig. 102.

Misc. RW. sherds.

18- 3-754-757 Three scraps sheet silver, 3 small frags. human bone, one-half of an alabaster mummy-eye (length 5.7 cm.), and a small frag. of worked limestone.

NOTE: For heart-scarab of Atmataka intruded in Nu. 47, see there, Not Registered.

Figure 102
Nu. 57. (II) Fig. 103. Queen Pirankh-her (?), a wife of Amtalqa (II).

SUPERSTR.
Destroyed above f.c. Its size may be traced by marks of plinth course on f.c. as being ca. 6.10 m sq. on plinth course.

ENCLOSURE
Sandstone masonry, preserved in part on W., S., and E., type II.

CHAPEL
Traces of foundations only, type III.

F.D.
None recorded.

SUBSTR.
Stair of 14 steps in front of chapel (access type IV). Sunk landing of 3 additional steps with plain round-topped doorway (type II). Door-block missing. One step down into A and slight slope down into B (type V a). A. 5.10 X 3.10 m. with roof of type IV, undecorated. B. 4.70 X 2.50 m. with roof of type III. B was cased in masonry, now preserved for only 2 to 3 c. Faint traces prd. stars and of winged disc (or bird?) on roof. No coffin-bench. Apparently a shallow niche low down in center of W. wall (but this may be only a missing block of the lining). Pl. XLII F.

BURIAL
Parts of mummy-eyes in 2 sizes (18-1-419; 18-2-6, 9) only.

OBJECTS
18-1-417-422 A, in floor debris
423 Entrance doorway, in debris
424, 425 A, in debris
18-2-3-7 A, in floor debris
8, 9 B, in floor debris
37-40 B, from sifting.
Not Registered. Shawabti figures in situ around walls of B and in floor debris. Pl. XLII F.

18-1-417; 18-2-3, 38, 40 Few frags. crumpled gold foil.
418 Three frags. of human bone.
419, 424; 18-2-6, 9 Alabaster and obsidian mummy-eye, and obsidian pupil from a second, slightly smaller. Fig. 104 (18-1-419, 424; 18-2-9).
420; 18-2-7 Frags. of a few beryl tubular beads, Fig. 104 (18-2-7) and two decayed tubular beads, one faience and the other gilded silver.
DESCRIPTION OF TOMBS

Nu. 57. (ii)

18-1-421 One broken double cone bead of blue glass. Fig. 104.

422 One Udjat-eye of jasper, plain, pierced. Fig. 104.

423 Frags. of at least 17 faience shawabti figures of Queen Pirankh-her (see below, not registered).

425 Frag. of a FHRW. bowl, RPol., wheelmade. Fig. 104.

18-2-4 Frags. of grey plaster, some with gold leaf adhering.

5 Thin sheet gold buckle-amulet. Incised details. Ring at back. Fig. 104.

8 Concavo-convex frag. of oxidized silver with gold leaf adhering.

37 (a) Gilded silver ball bead, hollow. Fig. 104.

39 (b) Beryl pendant bead. Fig. 104.

Thin sheet gold amulet: seated figure of Hapi. Incised details. Ring at back. Fig. 104.

Faience shawabti figures of Queen Pirankh-her. On floor and around walls of B (in situ Pl. xlii) as well as fragments listed above under 18-1-423. Total originally about 200 figures. Greyish-drab body, good blue glaze. Type iv 3 d with square basket and tab. Inscribed in 7 lines with double dividing line down center of back. Height varies between 15.3 and 16.8 cm. Fig. 198, inscription Fig. 207, Pl. cxi.
Nu. 5. (12) Fig. 105, Pl. xliii A. King Malēnaqēn. Prenomen Shn-k;r. Son of King Amtalqa (11).

Figure 105

SUPERSTR. Sandstone masonry pyramid on plinth course, presumably with stepped sloping face courses (type IX). Pyramid and course angles not recorded. Size 27.80 m. sq.

ENCLOSURE Sandstone masonry on f.c., with re-entrant angle (type III).

CHAPEL Sandstone masonry with recessed doorway but no pylon (type III). Walls in part preserved show no trace of inscriptions. Empty niche in W. end roofed with single block.

F.D. Calf bones; pottery jars, cups, and bowls; mortar and pestle; grinder and rubber; inscribed stone and metal tablets; faience cartouche; uninscribed faience cup; copper ore; resin. In rectangular holes (Pl. xliii c) at all four corners.

Long well-cut stair of 56 steps giving on a rather short flat landing (access type IV). Irregular masonry door-block in part destroyed by thieves (type III), (Pl. xliii b). Molded doorway, presumably of type III, giving on 3 chambers without steps or thresholds. A. 2.80 × 3.20 m., roof of type III, molded doorway with cornice leading to B. 3.10 × 6.20 m., roof of type III, molded doorway with cornice leading to C. 8.40 × 5.00 m., with roof of type IV, traces of free-standing masonry coffin-bench.
S. of axis, low niche in W. wall framed in moldings with cornice. No trace of inscriptions or decoration.

BURIAL

Two sets of mummy-eyes (17-1-647 etc.) and the inlay pieces (16-11-62 etc.) suggest that burial had been in two nested wooden anthropoid cases, one of which had been decorated with inlay work.

Figure 109

SUPERSTR. Sandstone masonry pyramid on plinth course with stepped, sloping face courses (type IX). Course and pyramid angles not recorded. Size: 10.10 m sq. on C.I.

ENCLOSURE Sandstone masonry preserved in part to 2 c. Front destroyed but was without re-entrant angle (type II).

CHAPEL Sandstone masonry. (Record incomplete, see only photograph Pl. xliv b). Probably type III. Chapel walls show traces of white plaster and polychrome painted decoration, but nothing is legible. Round topped granite stela in place in W. wall (see Not Registered below).

F.D. Calf skull and quarter; pottery jars of 2 types; pottery cups and dishes of 4 types; sandstone mortar and pestle; sandstone grinder and rubber; model mud brick; uninscribed faience cups; inscribed faience cartouche and name tile; inscribed alabaster tablet of MALÉNAQIĒN; uninscribed metal and stone tablets; alabaster rope and basket models; lumps of resin; one lump of copper ore. In round holes at all 4 corners (Pl. xliv c).

SUBSTR. Stair of 46 steps E. of chapel (access type IV) widely flaring at base and with almost no landing. Entrance doorway with moldings and cornice (type III) and remains of sandstone masonry door-block between jambs (type II) Pl. xliv d. Two chambers. Step down inside entrance doorway and step down into A, the floor of which slopes... slightly down W. Sunk landing before doorway to B and step down in doorway. A. 3.40 × 3.00 m. with roof of type IV, undecorated. B. 4.60 × 3.80 m. with roof of type III, undecorated. No coffin-bench or niche.

BURIAL
Frigs. of mummy-eyes, frigs. metal finger caps, many amulets, beads probably from net. No other evidence.

OBJECTS

DESCRIPTION OF TOMBS

Register of Found. Deposit Types, Nu. 18

Inscription Fig. 114, Pl. CXIII E.

17-3-132 Gold leaf-shaped pendant. Fig. 114, Pl. CXIII E: 7/3.

133 Tapering sheet gold tubular bead, lapped joint, 4 incised lines at small end. Pl. CXII E: 7/4.

134 Gold amulet in form of a snake. Ring soldered to back, Pl. CXII E: 6/1.

135 Two 8-lobed gold rosette buttons. Pl. CXII E: 7/6,7.

136 One hollow gold ball bead, plain. Fig. 114, Pl. CXII E: 6/2.

137 Gold terminal. Pl. CXII E: 7/5.

138, 139 Two hollow gold ornaments: ram's head crowned with sun disc, spring clip for fastening soldered to back plate. Fig. 114 (138), Pl. CXII E: 7/1,2.

NOTE: 17-3-131 to 139, from T.D. in chamber A, may well all be intruded from the plundering of neighboring tombs. 131 is clearly such a case, and the quality of these gold objects seems inconsistent with the obvious poverty of this tomb (poor construction and small size, absence of stela and decoration in chapel, absence of coffin-bench in burial chamber, inferior quality of shawabti).

Sandstone masonry pyramid on plinth course, with stepped sloping face courses (type IX). Size 28.24 m. sq. on c. 1. Pyramid angle 60°, course angle 72°. Core very poor red sandstone blocks, many laid on edge and poorly bonded to casing.

Enclosure
Sandstone masonry with re-entrant angle (type III).

Chapel
Sandstone masonry, front destroyed but probably of type III and certainly without pylon. West wall with elaborate molded shallow niche, inscribed, and never intended to take a stela. Fig. 116, Pl. XLV E.

F.D.
Calf bones; mortar and pestle; rubber and grinder; pottery jars, cups and dishes; uninscribed stone, metal, and glass paste tablets; inscribed faience cartouches; copper ore. At all 4 corners in round holes. Pl. XLV G.

Substr.
Stair of 52 steps bordered by mud brick retaining walls at upper end, in front of chapel but passing through front of enclosure, giving on a long, slightly sloping and narrow landing with one step up in front of entrance (access type IV). Masonry door-block in front of jambs (type III) in part preserved. Molded doorway with cornice (type III) Pl. XLV F. Three chambers with level floor throughout except for one step down in entrance. A. 3.60 × 3.30 m. with vaulted roof of type II, walls originally plastered and painted (now illegible). B. 4.20 × 4.00 m. with roof of type II, walls originally plastered and painted (now illegible). C. 5.30 × 4.10 with roof of type III, walls originally plastered and painted (now illegible). Low masonry coffin-bench, partially sunk in floor, free standing on axis.

Burial
Completely plundered out. Evidences indicating the presence of a mummified burial are: a gold figure of a winged kneeling goddess (17-1-6) from the breast, a gold finger-cap (17-1-2), and sheet gold ribbons (16-12-307). In addition a number of stone and glass inlay pieces suggest a decorated anthropoid case, but no traces of the usual mummy-eyes were found.

Faience shawabti of Nasalsa, nearly complete, type IV 1 d. (See Nu. 24, not registered); Pl. CXLI.

1879-1881 Seventy shawabti of Madikefi: 3 of type IV 1 a, 65 of type IV 1 d, 2 of type IV 3 d. (See Nu. 27, not registered); Pl. CXXXII.

1882 Two complete and frags. of 3 shawabti of Henuttakhebi(t), type IV 3 d. Fig. 198, inscription Fig. 206, Pl. CXLI.

This queen was buried in Nu. 28, but no shawabti were found there, and these examples, intruded in Nu. 25, are the only ones recovered. Height 18.2 to 21.0 cm.

1883 Seventy-six blue glazed faience shawabti of Malētaral m, type IV 3 d, white to grey body paste. Height ca. 17.0 cm. Fig. 198, inscription Fig. 208, Pl. CXLI (there were originally at least 150 figures).

1884 One faience shawabti of Atmataka (?), type IV 3 d. (See Nu. 55, not registered); Pl. CXLI.

1885 Two faience shawabti of Amnnitakay, type IV 3 d. (See Nu. 26, not registered); Pl. CXLI.

1886 Head of a faience shawabti of type v.

1887 Frag. from upper part of a faience shawabti of type IV 3 d.

NOTE: The many different shawabti and frags. found in this tomb present an interesting problem, and throw some light on the history.

of the plundering of the site. Shawabti and frags. representing at least 8 persons were found in this tomb, as follows:

Frag., probably of Atlanersa (7), ex. Nu. 20 17-1-1011. Head of type v found only at (7) and (g) ex. Nu. 22 or 23 17-2-1886. 1 figure of Nasalsa (10) ex. Nu. 24, 17-2-1878. 70 figures of Madiqeii (10) ex. Nu. 27, 17-2-1879-1881. 1 figure of Atmataka (11) ex. Nu. 55, 17-2-1884. 2 figures of Amantakaye (12) ex. Nu. 26, 17-2-1885. 2 figures and frags. of Henuttakhebi (11) ex. Nu. 28, 17-2-1882. 75 figures (originally ca. 150) of Malétaral II, (14) ex. Nu. 25, 17-2-1883, 1 fragment of a queen’s figure, unidentified — 17-2-1887.

Some of the above figures were found in disturbed debris in the stair and in Rooms A and B, but about 86 figures and fragments were found in their original position around the walls of the burial chamber B. Of these 86 figures approximately one quarter were of Queen Madiqeii, and the rest were of Malétaral II. Madiqeii is known to have been buried in Nu. 27, hence it seems clear that the majority of the figures found in their original position, and which bore the name of Malétaral, represent the woman for whom this tomb was made. It will be noted further that all the other identified figures came not only from tombs ranging in date from (7) to (12), but also that with one exception (17-2-1884 from Nu. 55) all their tombs of origin lie topographically close to Nu. 25 (see Map). It seems warrantable to suggest, therefore, that those who buried the lady of Nu. 25 supplemented the figures especially made for her, and bearing her name, by plundering the earlier tombs adjacent, and appropriating for the equipment of her tomb figures taken from them. If this be the case, the date (14) for Nu. 25, arrived at on archaeological grounds, would agree with the fact that the figures of other persons used in this tomb are all of dates immediately antecedent. The alternative possibility, that the figures having other names found in this tomb resulted from general plundering of the site, seems improbable, for in that case one would anticipate finding figures of later as well as of earlier dates.

SUPERSTR.
Sandstone masonry pyramid on plinth course, with stepped sloping face courses (type IX). Pyramid appears to have been blunted: angle of lower part 60°, of upper part ca. 45°, course angle 67°. Size 27.40 m. sq. on c. 1.

SUBSTR.
Calf bones; mortar and pestle; sandstone rubber and grinder; pottery jars, bowls and cups; uninscribed stone and metal tablets; uninscribed faience tiles and inscribed faience cartouches; copper and lead ore; red and black resin. At all four corners of pyramid in round holes. Pl. XLVII B. (SW.)

ENCLOSURE
Sandstone masonry with re-entrant angle (type III).

CHAPEL
Simple masonry chapel with recessed doorway but no pylon (type III). Empty niche at W. end. Walls largely destroyed and no traces of reliefs remain. Pl. XLVI E.

F.D.
Stair of 55 steps in front of chapel and enclosing wall, giving on a rather short flaring flat landing (access type IV). Masonry door-block set between jams (type II) in part preserved; molded doorway in part preserved (type III) Pl. XLVI F. Three chambers (type v c) without steps or thresholds in doorways. A. 5.00 X 4.20 m., roof collapsed, unpaved and undecorated. B. 6.30 X 5.00 m., roof of type II, paved with rough sandstone blocks, undecorated. C. 7.20 X 6.30 m., roof of type II, niche of type III, undecorated. Floor paved and with low granite platform on axis for sarcophagus (missing). Pl. XLVII A.
BURIAL

Plundered. The finding of many stone inlay pieces and the parts of at least two mummy-eyes indicates that burial had been made in a decorated (wooden?) anthropoid coffin. The sarcophagus, if any, which rested on the low granite bench cited above, must have been of wood, since no trace of a stone one was found.

ENCLOSURE Sandstone masonry, preserved in part at E. end only (type II), the rest being destroyed by later Christian walls.

CHAPEL Sandstone masonry, preserved only at W. end, the rest destroyed by Christian constructions. Niche in W. wall.

F.D. Calf skull and quarter; sandstone mortar and pestle; haematite rubber and grinder; pottery jar, pot, cups, and saucers; uninscribed metal and stone tablets. At all 4 corners in round holes. Pl. II A.

SUBSTR. Stair of 29 irregular steps in front of chapel (access type IV) with pronounced flare at W. end and flat landing. Irregular masonry door-block in front of jambs (type III) and molded doorway with cornice, disc, and uraei (type III), Pl. I A. Two chambers without thresholds but with single step down into each (type VI B). A. 5.00 X 3.50 m. with roof of type II and traces of yellow paint on walls. Doorway to B, molded with cornice, which shows traces of red painted stripes on a yellow ground. B. 5.00 X 3.50 m. with roof of type II, undecorated. Free-standing axial coffin-bench of masonry. No niche.

One broken but complete mummy-eye (18–1–187) and frags. of what appears to be a Canopic jar (18–1–152) indicate mumification.

Nu. 4. (17)

Fig. 133, Pl. L.D. King St'ASPIQA (?). Prenomen Sgrh-Ruy-Rt (?). No relationships established.

SUPERSTR.

Sandstone masonry pyramid with stepped courses laid on a plinth course (type IX).

Course and pyramid angles not determinable. Size: 26.95 m. sq. on c.f.

ENCLOSURE

Sandstone masonry f.c. only preserved.

Type III.

CHAPEL

Sandstone masonry with recessed doorway and pylon (type IV). Walls remain 2 courses high in part and were decorated with inscriptions in white plaster, gilded and painted (see 17-2-1907 below). Granite stela fallen out of niche (Pl. L E) had its tympanum gilded. There appear to have been originally a granite offering stone in front of the stela (see below Not Registered A), and two granite offering stands (see below, Not Registered B).

F.D.

Calf bones; pottery jars, cups, and dishes; sandstone mortar and pestle; stone grinder and rubber; uninscribed tablets of metal and stone; inscribed faience cartouche; haematite palette; lumps of resin. Preserved at all four corners in round holes. Pl. L G.

SUBSTR.

Stair of 49 steps leading to long flat landing E. of chapel (access type IV). Masonry door-block largely preserved (type III) Pl. L F. Doorway, probably molded with cornice, destroyed (type III) leading without change of level to 3 chambers. A. 4.90 × 4.00 m. with roof of type II and paved floor; B. 5.80 × 5.90 m. with roof of type II and unpaved floor; C. 7.50 × 6.55 m. with roof of type II and paved floor, molded niche and cornice at W. end, and low granite axial coffin-bench (type IV). No trace of inscription in chambers.

BURIAL

Inlay pieces from mummy-case (?) and mummy-eyes.

N.B.

It seems clear from the fragmentary evidence that the burial had been made in an anthropoid mummy-case (or possibly a nest of two), as evidenced by the eyes 17-4-94 etc., and it is suggested that the stone inlay pieces may have served as decoration on a wooden anthropoid case (see for example Cairo 61025).

Not Registered B. Two granite offering stands, originally from chapel but found in T.D. in stair and inside doorway to A. One is broken, the other complete. Both incised with two cartouches of Sir Aspiqa. No measurements available. Pl. cxxviii d,e, inscription Fig. 135.
Nu. 29. (17) Fig. 137, on Pl. XLVII C (left). Queen (?) Pirankhêw-qa. Perhaps wife of Swaspiqa (?) (17).

SUPERSTR. Sandstone masonry pyramid on plinth f.d. course with stepped, sloping face courses (type IX). Course and pyramid angles not recorded. Size: 11.20 m sq. on c.f.

ENCLOSURE Sandstone masonry, preserved to 2 c. at W., destroyed at E. Presumably of type II.

CHAPEL Sandstone masonry, apparently of type II (record incomplete). Originally roofed with leaning slabs (fallen). Small shallow niche without stela. Walls undecorated.

No animal bones; RW. jar and dishes; sandstone mortar and pestle; haematite rubber and grinder; uninscribed blue faience cup; inscribed faience cartouche (the only examples of the name found); uninscribed faience, metal, and stone tablets; blue faience cylinder and ring beads; bronze model tools; copper ore and black resin. At all four corners in square holes. Pl. I.1 B (SE.).
DESCRIPTION OF TOMBS

SUBSTR. Stair of 40 low steps E. of chapel (access type iv) flaring to a short nearly flat landing. Entrance doorway molded with cornice (type iii), masonry door-block between jamb (type ii) Pl. Ll A. Two chambers without thresholds or steps, the floor sloping slightly up W. A. 4.40 X 3.30 m with roof of type iv, undecorated. B. 5.00 X 3.65 m. with roof of type iv, undecorated. No coffin-bench or niche.

DESCRIPTION OF TOMBS

Nu. 52. (17) Fig. 139. Name not recovered. Sex presumed female.

SUPERSTR.
Sandstone masonry pyramid on plinth course, upper courses destroyed. Red sandstone casing, yellow and grey sandstone core. Presumed to be type IX. Size: 8.10 m sq. on plinth course.

ENCLOSURE
Completely destroyed. The precincts are overbuilt with Christian hut walls.

CHAPEL
Red sandstone masonry. Foundations and a few traces only remain. Type II or III with no trace remaining of a niche.

F.D.
Pottery cup and saucer; mud saucers; sandstone mortar and pestle; uninscribed bronze, faience, and stone tablets; bronze model axe-head and hoe-blade; cakes of red, green, and blue color; no animal bones. At all four corners in round holes. Pl. LI c (NW.).

BURIAL
Stair of 28 steps with wide and fairly long flat landing (access type IV). Very pronounced “bottle-neck”. Molded doorway with cornice and tablet (type III). Door-block removed except for remains of lowest course which was between jambs (type II). One step down in doorway and another into single chamber (type V a). A. 4.90 X 3.50 m. with roof of type II, undecorated. No trace of coffin-bench or niche.

Note.
Stairway and chamber contained dirty blackish-brown debris only, mixed with sherds of post-Napatan date. Reisner noted in Diary, Dec. 25th, 1917 “re-used as a cellar in Christian times.”
Nu. 19. (18) Fig. 141, PI. LI D. King NASAKHMA¹, Prenomen unknown. Successor of SIASPIQA (?) (17).

SUPERSTR. Sandstone masonry pyramid on plinth course, with stepped sloping face courses (type ix). Poorly built. Angles of slope not recorded. Size 9.73 m. sq. on c.l.

ENCLOSURE Sandstone masonry, plain (type ii).

CHAPEL Sandstone masonry, front destroyed, but clearly without pylon (probably type m). Very shallow niche without stela. No trace of decoration or inscription, no pavement.

F.D. No animal bones. Sandstone mortar and pestle; pottery jar, vase, and dishes; one uninscribed faience cup; inscribed faience cartouches; uninscribed faience, metal, stone, and frit tablets; bronze dishes and model tools. At all four corners in square holes. Pl. LI F (SW.).

Short stair of 30 steps (the upper 11 of masonry) in front of enclosing wall and chapel (type iv). Short, flaring, and sloping landing. Molded (?) doorway (type m?) and very rough masonry block between jambs (type ii), both partly destroyed by thieves, Pl. LI E. No steps or thresholds, but floor slopes down from base of stair to E. end.

¹The last two signs in the cartouche may be intended for the honorific terminal qa, so that a spelling NASAKHMA-QA might be justified.

NURI

NURI 11. (ig) Fig. 148, Pl. LII E. King MALEWIEBAMANI. Prenomen Hpr-kR-Rc. Son of Queen Sakeraye and perhaps of King NASAKHMA (18).

SUPERSTR. Sandstone masonry pyramid on plinth course, with stepped sloping face courses (type IX). Pyramid angle 64°, course angle 70°. Size 26.60 m. sq. on c.i.

ENCLOSURE Sandstone masonry two blocks wide with re-entrant angle (type III).

CHAPEL Sandstone masonry with pylon but no corner moldings (type IV). Traces of scenes on both E. faces of pylon: the feet of two striding male figures facing each other with indications of some object (perhaps an animal on its back) between them: Pl. LIII A. Niche in W. wall empty. (The granite stela was found in the Coptic Church Nu. 100 No. 3, Pl. LXX A). Side walls largely preserved and had been decorated with lightly scratched figures and texts now almost wholly illegible: Pl. LIII B, C. A damaged cartouche on S. wall near entrance is on Fig. 148. The chapel had been roofed with heavy blocks 93 cm. long. Since the chapel is 270 cm. wide and the side walls are heavy, the method was probably as indicated on Fig. 148, Pl. LIII D.

F.D. Ox bones; sandstone rubber and grinder; stone mortar and pestle; pottery jars, cups, and dishes; uninscribed stone and metal tablets; faience cartouches; bronze model tools. In round holes at all four corners. Pl. LIII f, g.

SUBSTR. Stair of 56 steps in front of both chapel and enclosure (upper walls of stair-cut faced with masonry on both sides at E. end, and last 13 steps at E. are of masonry), giving on a flat landing of moderate length and flare (access type IV). Well-laid masonry door-block of type III (Pl. LIII b), destroyed in part by thieves. Molded doorway presumably of type III giving on 3 chambers without thresholds; one step up at doorway to C (Chamber type V C). A. 5.30 X 4.20 m., with roof of type II, undecorated. Doorway to B has offset at spring. B. 7.10 X 5.90 m., with roof of type II, undecorated but S.E. corner faced with masonry blocks. C. 7.10 X 6.40 m., with roof of type II, undecorated. Axial coffin-bench of masonry (type IV) and no niche preserved at W. end.

BURIAL Completely plundered. Numerous stone inlay pieces, and one alabaster mummy-eye suggest that burial had been made in a wooden (?) anthropoid mummy-case.

DESCRIPTION OF TOMBS

Ni. 11. (19)

121 The granite stela which had originally stood in the chapel of Nu. 11 was found used as a paving stone in the Coptic church, Nu. 100, (No. 3) so worn as to be illegible. It was round-topped with a scene of the king (right) offering to Osiris (left) under a winged disc. There were 27 lines of incised text. Reisner believed he could make out the king's name, but this cannot be verified from the only photograph, and the stela is not recorded as being either in Boston or Khartoum. It is presumed that, because of its worn condition, it was not removed from the site. See Nu. 100 No. 3, Pl. LXX A.

1973 About 250 faience shawabti figures of MALÉWIEBAMANI; 6 perfect, 20 complete but broken. Type 13 d, crudely handmade. Fine paste lightly baked, grey with dark center, thin pale blue or green glaze. Inscription in 7 lines with narrow gap at back is crudely incised, carelessly done with some hieratic signs, garbled and often illegible. The test is not the normal formula. Found in debris of Band C, and in situ around walls of C (Pl. UII H). Fig. 197, Inscription Fig. 203 where one text is given in facsimile. Pl. CXL.

DESCRIPTION OF TOMBS

Nu. 31. (19) Fig. 152, on Pl. XLVII c (right). Queen Sakaraye, perhaps wife of NASAKHMA (18) and perhaps mother of MALÉWIEBAMANI (19).

Figure 152

SUPERSTR. Sandstone masonry pyramid on plinth course with stepped, sloping face courses (type IX). Course and pyramid angles not recorded. Badly constructed of re-used blocks and badly preserved. Size: 11.90 m sq. on c.r.

ENCLOSURE Preserved at N. and NW. corner only. The N. side of enclosing wall of Nu. 30, which is older, serves as S. side of enclosure of Nu. 31. Presumably type II.

CHAPEL Largely destroyed. W. end only preserved, with deep niche but no stela. Undecorated.

F.D. Skull and quarter of calf; pottery jar, deep bowl, cups and dishes; haematite grinder and rubber; faience amulet; uninscribed faience, bronze, and stone tablets. At all 4 corners in round holes. (Pl. LIV b, NE.)

SUBSTR. Stair of 32 somewhat irregular steps, the top 2 being paved (access type IV). Short flaring flat landing. Double masonry door-block, both in front of and between jambs (type II and III); cornice over doorway (modified type III); Pl. LIV A, c. Two chambers without steps or thresholds. A. 4.40 × 3.30 m. with roof of type IV, undecorated. B. 4.80 × 3.60 m. with roof of type IV, undecorated. Free standing masonry bench on axis (type IV) and niche high up in W. wall (type IV).

BURIAL Two gold finger-caps and a mummy-eye, with elements of a bead net.

985 Thirty-five RW. saucers and frags., wheelmade. Fig. 157. In situ on Pl. LIV h.

986 Twenty-three RW. jars, wheelmade, some broken. Fig. 157.

18-4-536 About 45 crude faience shawabti figures of Akhrasan. Type 13 e and minor variants. Poor drab paste and very thin faded glaze. Size varies from 10.6 to 15.0 cm., crudely incised inscriptions. Fig. 198, Inscriptions Fig. 208, Pl. CXL.

Not Registered. Greyish-black granite basin, uninscribed. Fig. 156.
King TALAKHAMANI, Prenomen unknown. Successor, perhaps brother, of MALÉWIEBAMANI (19).

SUPERSTR. Sandstone masonry pyramid on plinth course, with stepped, sloping face courses (type IX). Casing much weathered where preserved. A filled pyramid, the filling of schist debris held by a core retaining wall 2 to 3 stones thick. Size 11.80 m. sq. on c.t. It is to be noted that the pyramid appears much too small for the stair and substructure, which are quite out of scale, and one suspects that a much larger superstr. was originally intended.

ENCLOSURE Sandstone masonry without re-entrant angle (type II).

CHAPEL Sandstone masonry, incomplete at front, but with no indication of a pylon having existed (type II or III). Rough granite stele in situ in niche in W. wall, Pl. LV b. No record of inscription or decoration on chapel walls, many blocks from which were found in thieves' hole in stair.
DESCRIPTION OF TOMBS
Nu. 16.

F.D.
Skull and quarter of calf; no pottery; uninscribed metal and stone tablets; one chalcedony flake. In a round hole at SE. only.

SUBSTR.
Stair of 47 steps (of which the upper 19 are of masonry) E. of chapel and enclosure (type IV), giving on a moderately short landing. Door-block of sandstone masonry in front of jambs (type III), Pl. LV c, broken at top by thieves. Entrance, broken at top, of type I. Three chambers without steps or thresholds (type V c). A. 4.60 x 4.50 m., vaulted roof with offset (type IV), no trace of decoration. B. 5.60 x 5.80 m., roof vault of type IV, no trace of decoration. C. 7.10 x 6.60 m., roof vault of type IV, mud plastered walls. Free-standing rock bench on axis (type IV), niche in W. wall of type III.

DESCRIPTION OF TOMBS

Nu. 12. (21) Fig. 162, Pl. LV D. King Aman-nête-yerike, Prenomen Nfr-ib-Rê. Son(?) of Malewieb-AMANI (19).

SUPERSTR. Sandstone masonry pyramid with outer enlargement, both of same type (type ix). Inner pyramid: pyramid angle 62°, course angle 70°, size 26.45 m.sq. on c.1; Pl. LV E. Outer pyramid: angles not recorded, size 32.30 m.sq. on c.1. The base of the f.c. of the outer pyramid is 30 cm. higher than that of the inner pyramid.

ENCLOSURE Sandstone masonry with re-entrant angle (type ii), its front in line with west end of stair-cut. Wall 110 cm. wide, laid on a wider f.c. Sandstone pavement within enclosure E. of pyramid.

CHAPEL Sandstone masonry with pylon but no recesses at doorway (type v?). Walls preserved to ca. 2 c. are not inscribed, but inscribed stones found in stair-cut, including frags. of a lintel and two molded corner blocks probably came from fallen pylon. The lintel blocks give the King's titulary. Fig. 162, Pl. LVI D,E (lintel), H,1 (molded blocks), F,G. (It should be noted that the titulary given here differs from that recorded at Kawa. The variants are given in parallel on Fig. 164.) Stela niche in W. wall found empty. Before it originally stood the sandstone offering-table found displaced in SE. corner of chapel (see below 17-1-175). In situ in chapel were the following objects: 2 sandstone libation stands(?) in the form of fluted papyrus stems on circular bases, their tops broken off and missing; an oval red sandstone basin in the form of a cartouche; a cubic sandstone block with a circular sinkage in its W. face (thought by Reisner once to have contained a faience disc). All these are seen on Pl. LV F. The floor of the chapel was paved.

F.D. Calf bones; sandstone mortar and pestle; haematite rubber and grinder; mud sealed pottery jar and dishes; one large bronze vessel in each of 3 corners; plain faience tablet; plain stone and metal tablets originally encased in gilded mud brick; bronze model tools; lead ore and bees wax (SE. only); lump of resin in 2 corners only. In approximately circular holes under all four corners of the inner pyramid (Pl. LVI F,C.).

SUBSTR. Stair of 47 steps in front of chapel but passing under front of enclosing wall, giving on a long slightly flaring landing (access type iv). Plain round topped doorway (type i), its south jamb built up of masonry. Masonry block between jambs (type ii) in part destroyed by thieves. Pl. LVI A, 3 chambers (of which only 2 were excavated) without internal steps or thresholds, the floor being paved from base of stair throughout (type v c). A. 5.40 X 4.40 m. with roof of type iv, undecorated. B. 5.90 X 6.70 m. with roof too caved in to classify. C was left unexcavated because clearing would have entailed collapse of superstr. above.

BURIAL No evidence.

Crumpled gold foil.

Frag. of a beryl inlay piece.

Frag. of a faience shawabti figure of AMANTE-VERIKE. Head missing, glaze gone, drab body paste. Presumed to be of type 1.3 d. Crudely incised with an offering formula in four lines running clear around body. Fig. 197, Inscription, Fig. 203, Pl. CXL. This is the only example of the figures of this king found, since the burial chamber C was not excavated.

SUPERSTR. Sandstone masonry pyramid on plinth course with sloping face and presumably stepped courses (only c.1 preserved) (type 19). Course and pyramid angles not recorded. Well-built masonry. Size: 11.95 m sq. on c.1.

ENCLOSURE Sandstone masonry without re-entrant angles (type II). At its NW. corner this wall is built against the S. face of enclosing wall of Nu. 32, which is earlier (see map).

CHAPEL Sandstone masonry with recessed doorway but no pylon (type III). Empty niche preserved. Walls largely destroyed. No trace of decoration.

BURIAL None.

SUBSTR. Stair in front of chapel and enclosure incompletely excavated (access type IV). Short flat flaring landing. Masonry door-block of double thickness between jambs (type II), in molded doorway with cornice (type III), Pl. LVII B. Two chambers without steps or thresholds. A. 3.60 X 3.30 m. with roof of type IV, undecorated. B. 5.30 X 3.50 m. with roof of type IV, undecorated. Freestanding masonry bench on axis (type IV) and niche high in W. wall (type IV).

NOTE: 18-3-994-996 in situ on floor of A, Pl. LVII G.

About 30 faience shawabti figures, mostly in frags. (27 heads counted). Type 13 e.

Coarse bluish-grey paste and poor, thin, faded glaze. Considerable variation in form, crudely shaped. Height from 12.5 to 14.5 cm. Crudely scratched signs below hands, but no name is legible. Fig. 198, Inscription Fig. 208, Pl. cxxi.

"A small uninscribed altar of sandstone."

Found in clearing W. half of stair-cut on March 13, 1918. This entry in the Diary is the only record; no drawing, photograph, or measurements.
Nu. 17. (22) Fig. 168, Pl. LVII D. King BASKAKEREŠ, Prehomen unknown. Son of MALÉWIEBAMANI (19).

SUPERSTR. Sandstone masonry pyramid on plinth course, with stepped sloping face courses (type IX). Badly decayed casing, rubble filled core. Size 12.30 m sq. on c.t.

ENCLOSURE Sandstone masonry. Traces of the butts of two walls extending E. from E. face of pyramid, but not preserved beyond face of chapel (type V, 1st variant?).

CHAPEL Sandstone masonry with recessed doorway, and no pylon (type III). Heavy side walls in part preserved, uninscribed. Niche in W. wall with cornice, disc, and uraei, in which had stood the granite stele found lying in front (Pl. LVII E). Cylindrical granite post in center of paved floor, and before it on floor a broken crude pottery offering-table.

None found.

STAIR OF 32 steps immediately E. of chapel (access type IV). (steps 17, 31 and 32 from bottom are of stone). Short, slightly flaring landing. Round topped doorway (type I) with carefully fitted masonry block between jambs (type II) Pl. LVII F. Two chambers without steps or thresholds, but sloping slightly downward from base of stair to E. end of room B. A. 4.60 X 3.80 m., roof of type II, roof and walls plastered, painted winged disc over doorway to B. B. 5.30 X 3.60 m., roof of type II, roof and walls plastered. Free-standing masonry bench on axis (type IV), niche high in W. wall (type IV). Abnormal shelf-like projection in NE. corner.
DESCRIPTION OF TOMBS

BURIAL

Completely plundered. A finger-cap from the mummy (17-3-4) and a fragmentary Canopic jar (17-3-379) are the only evidences for the method of burial.

Sherd of BKW., BK.Pol. inside and out.

172
Ffrags. of 3 large RW. jars, form not reconstructed.

249
Grey granite stela. Round topped winged disc and uraei. Scene with background cut away: at right, king in adoration before a table of bread; at left Osiris and Isis. Below, 7 lines of incised hieroglyphs. Height 65.5 cm., width 35.0 cm., thickness ca. 20.0 cm. As found in chapel, Pl. lvii e. Fig. 169, Pl. lxix c.

Not Registered. Broken pottery altar from chapel

17-3-362, 365, 395, 407, 408, 416, 417
Thirty-four RW. saucers and frags. of ca. 30 more. Fig. 169 (362), Pl. lxxvii a: top row.

363, 370
Crumpled gold foil.

364, 372-378, 396-398, 410, 418
6 RW. jars, and frags. of at least 12 more. Small loop handles, some not pierced. Fig. 169 (364), Pl. lxxvii b: 1/1–3; lxxvii a: 2/1, 2; lxxvii b: 2/1, 2.

371
Many scraps of gesso or plaster colored red and green.

379
Base of an alabaster Canopic jar. Fig. 169.

380
Nine frags. of a thin walled alabaster vase with wide disc rim. Not reconstructed, but similar to 17-3-405 below.

381, 385, 399, 400, 409, 419, 430-432
Three wide RW. bowls with rolled rim, and frags. of at least 12 more. Fig. 169 (381).

382, 391
Ffrags. of a large oval RW. offering tray. Crudely modelled crocodile (?) on rim. Fig. 169 (391).

383, 384
Ffrags. of 3 RW. dishes with flat base. Fig. 169 (383).

401, 405, 412
Ffrags. of 2 alabaster vases with disc rim, thin. Fig. 169 (405).

402
Ffrags. of ca. 12 faience shawabti figures found in floor debris of burial chamber (B) and undoubtedly those of BASKAKEREN. Coarse grey-drab body paste, very poor greenish glaze. Degeneration of type I3 E. Apparently hand cut, not molded, with implements and inscription incised. Fig. 197, Inscription Fig. 203, Pl. cxii.

411
Bronze plate 6.9 X 3.2 cm. and 0.35 cm. thick, pierced with 2 holes, one of which contains a bronze rivet of diameter 0.5 cm. and 3.9 cm. in length.

413
Upper part of a green glazed faience Menat-amulet, yellowish body. Fig. 169.

433
Rim frags. of a deep RW. bowl. Fig. 169.

The crude pottery offering-table found in the chapel was never recorded, photographed, or drawn. In the Diary it is merely said that it was of "crude pottery" and that it had the traditional form with projection in center of one long side representing the "hotep"-symbol.
Figure 170
Nu. 13. (23) Fig. 170, Pl. LVIII A.  King HARSIOTEF, Prenomen S-Imn-mry. Perhaps son of AMAN-NETEYERIKE (21).

SUPERSTR.  Sandstone masonry pyramid on plinth course, with stepped sloping face courses (probably) (type IX). Size ca. 26.40 m. sq. on c.t. The pyramid is badly built and greatly decayed, the entire NE. corner having disappeared. No measurements of angle were possible, and no elevations or sections were recorded. The interior was not properly constructed but was filled with rubble and debris, which accounts largely for its poor preservation.

ENCLOSURE  Sandstone masonry with re-entrant angle (type III). Built on projecting f.c. Area between enclosure and chapel at E. paved.

CHAPEL  Sandstone masonry almost totally destroyed, but with clear evidence of a pylon with round moldings at corners (type IV). It was noted in the Diary that the few blocks remaining in the chapel showed traces of hieroglyphic inscriptions and figures, the latter colored in red, blue, and yellow applied directly to the surface without any plaster layer. From the chapel, found fallen into the thieves' penetration in west end of stair-cut, was a block from NE. corner of pylon showing a round corner molding, a battered face, and traces of a king's head surmounted by a hawk with spread wings in relief. Another block from the same place bore an incomplete cartouche (on Fig. 170). Niche in W. wall neatly dressed, had been widened to take a stela (missing) larger than that originally planned.

F.D.  Calf skull and quarter; haematite grinder and rubber; pottery jar, deep bowl, and dishes; metal, stone, and glass tablets all uninscribed; copper and iron model tools; lump of copper ore. At all 4 corners in circular holes under f.c. but outside corners of the pyramid. Pl. LVIII B, c.

N.B. The location of the F.D.'s outside the pyramid corners appears to indicate that the original plans contemplated a building larger than the one actually constructed.

SUBSTR.  Stair (not fully cleared) lies entirely E. of enclosure and was of pronounced bottle-neck form with wide flare at base and very narrow opening above (access type IV). Masonry door-block between jambs (type II). Form of doorway not recorded. Room A in part excavated but not measured or drawn. Other rooms (presumably B and C) never excavated.

Owing to the bad state of the rock, poor construction of the pyramid, and much infiltration of water, the conditions met with were so dangerous that it was considered impossible to complete the clearing of chambers, and the record therefore remains incomplete.

The recovery from debris in A of two gold finger-caps containing finger bones, a stone heart scarab, a gold representation of the flail of Osiris, and a few inlay pieces, indicate the existence of a mumified burial with traditional trappings, probably in a decorated anthropoid case.

12, 642 Two bands of flat gold wire terminating in lotus flowers and strung with gold ball and barrel beads. Fig. 171 (642), Pl. cxiv b: lower center.
13 Seventeen frags. of gold wire of round section (ca. 0.1 cm.). Pl. cxiv b: lower center.
14 Two gold finger-caps containing falanges. Sheet metal folded with seam down side. Pl. cxiv b: center.
15 Gold lid of a vessel: knob in the form of an ape head in solid gold soldered to top. Fig. 171, Pl. cxiv b: bottom right.
Serpentine frame of a small eye. Pl. cxiv b: 17-3-568 bottom left.

19 Fine sandstone heart-scarab inscribed on base with Chapter 30 in ten lines in the name of a hitherto unrecorded queen, inscribed on back across wing cases with name and title of Harsioteif, Fig. 171, Pl. cxxv b. This scarab was clearly intended for the unknown queen named on the base and usurped by the owner of Nu. 13.

439 RW. flaring bowl with flat base. Fig. 171, Pl. lxxxiv a: 1/4.

441 Two joining frags. from body of a faience shawabti figure, the only evidence recovered for the figures of Harsioteif, if indeed the fragments are not intrusive. Poor pinkish paste, crusty greenish glaze. No evidence as to type and no inscription. These fragments are suggestive of the figures of Nastasefi (Nu. 15, 17-3-332).

516, 548, 567 Many frags. of thick flat sheet silver with incised lines on one face. Thickness 0.2 cm. Fig. 171.

517 Roughly rounded object of ostrich egg shell.

518, 555 Several frags. of human skull.

519, 574 Sherds from one or more round bottomed RW. vessels, R. washed.

520 Frags. of a RW. flaring bowl. Fig. 171.

523 Frag. of a deep, straight sided bowl of Dhw. with R. surface. Hole in side. Fig. 171.

549-554, 570-573 Two small irregular RW. basins and frags. of at least 12 others. Fig. 171 (549).

1 In the summer of 1954 these cranial fragments, together with other skeletal material from Meroe, were submitted to Dr. L. Cabot Briggs of the Peabody Museum of Archaeology and Ethnology at Harvard. Dr. Briggs has very kindly sent me the following report which, with his permission, I quote. These fragments have been deposited at the Peabody Museum.

“The cranial remains of King Harsioteif from Nuri 13 are so fragmentary that we can learn little from them. Only a few broken pieces of the skull vault have survived to show that the King was a very muscular and thick-skulled man. The brow ridges are fairly large and of the median type, the temporal crests are very prominent at least on the frontal bone, and the mean thickness of the left parietal seems to have been probably between 9 and 10 millimeters. The King was somewhere in his middle twenties when he died. Racially King Harsioteif may well have been a survivor of the primitive white type that characterizes the earliest urban levels all over the Near East, Vallois’ (‘40) "proto-iranian" of Sialk, Persia, although he was probably somewhat more refined in the manner of Angel’s (‘44) ancient Greek "Basic White" type. What little is left of him looks a good deal like some of the Northern Neolithic people of Northwest Africa and some of their "African Mediterranean" predecessors in that area (Briggs, ‘55). Included among the remains of King Harsioteif submitted to me were two parietal fragments clearly belonging to another individual. These are not enough to lead to any conclusion except that the subject was a young adult and had a skull no thicker than many modern women.”

DESCRIPTION OF TOMBS

Nu. 34. (23) Fig. 173, Pl. LVIII D. Queen Henutirdis, temp. Harsiotef (23).

SUPERSTR. Red sandstone masonry pyramid on plinth course with sloping face stepped courses (only c. i. preserved) (type ix). Course and pyramid angles not recorded. Well-built casing but interior rubbish-filled. Size: 11.90 m. sq. on c. i.

ENCLOSURE Sandstone masonry without re-entrant angles (type ii). Christian intrusive house walls in area E. of pyramid overlying chapel and enclosing wall (see Pl. LVIII D.).

CHAPEL Sandstone masonry, preserved only at W. end, with deep niche in W. face. Contained frags. of a granite offering stand (not registered) and an offering-table (18-1-52, in situ Pl. LVIII E.). No trace of decoration.

None found.

F.D. SUBSTR. Stair of 32 steps (the upper 8 of masonry) in front of enclosure (access type iv). Short slightly flaring landing which slopes down to doorway. Round-topped plain doorway (type i). Masonry door-block between jambs (type ii) Pl. LVIII F. Two chambers without steps or thresholds. A. 3.70 X 2.80 m. with roof of type ii, undecorated. B. 5.60 X 4.20 m. with low wide vaulted roof (type ii) and remains of pink plaster on walls and vault showing traces of painted decoration: sun's disk, figures, hieroglyphic inscriptions, all too obscure for recording. Free-standing axial coffin-bench of red sandstone. Niche high up in W. wall (type iv).
Burial

Plundered out. One bronze rimmed mummy-eye and frag. of another (18-1-442; 18-2-52) indicate a mummy case or anthropoid coffin.

Five frags. only of shawabti figures of Atasamalé (including one registered as 18-2-341). Extremely poor faience (mud-like sandy body) with very thin colorless glaze. Type I 3 e(?), uninscribed. Fig. 180, PI. CXL!.

A. Sandstone offering-stand (mentioned in Diary, Feb. 13, 1918, but neither measured nor drawn) from foot of stair near door-block (perhaps shown in left foreground on Pl. LIX 6).

B. Sandstone offering-table found in A in T.D. near entrance (Diary, Feb. 15, 1918) but neither measured nor drawn. Reisner in his diary entry says only “a red sandstone altar, in general style like the altar of AMAN-NÊTE-YERIKE (Nu. 12). The name is partly obliterated but I read (here follows sketch of cartouche, reproduced Fig. 180)”. This constitutes the only evidence for the name of the owner of Nu. 61. The offering-table Pl. LXXIII E, otherwise unassigned, may be the one in question, but this remains uncertain.

N.B. The dating of this tomb is not certain. It is based on its position in the cemetery (see Map) where it has been manifestly added at a later date in front of the E. row Nu. 36-41, and adjacent to Nu. 44 (29). It will be noted also that the type of substructure is the same as that found in Nu. 48, 51, and Ku. 2, all of which are to be dated to (24).
DESCRIPTION OF TOMBS

SUPERSTR. Sandstone masonry pyramid on plinth course, with stepped sloping face courses (type IX). Well built of red sandstone, denuded down to c. 2. Size: 11.60 m. sq. on c.t.

ENCLOSURE Sandstone masonry without re-entrant angle (type II).

CHAPEL Sandstone masonry, completely destroyed except for f.c. on south. Presumed to have been of type III. The walls which had collapsed into stair-cut (Pl. LX E), were of well-cut blocks, one of which is from a cavetto cornice. None found.

SUBSTR. Stair of 28 regular steps, the cutting extending through chapel to pyramid face (type V). Long flaring landing. Round topped entrance doorway (type I) with carefully laid sandstone masonry door-block between jambs (type II) with inner rough block behind (Pl. LX F). Slight drop in front of entrance and gently sloping floor through two chambers (type V a), but no thresholds or steps. A. 4.20 x 2.60 m. with roof of type II, undecorated. - 17-12-131
  - Body frag. of a faience shawabti figure of Senkamysekh (Nu. 3) with parts of 2 lines inscription. Type 1-4 d (intrusive).

N.B.

All the shawabti fragments found in this tomb are clearly intrusive and come from the general plundering of the site.

---

- SUPERSTR.
  - Sandstone masonry pyramid on plinth course with stepped sloping face courses (type ix).
  - Size ca. 26.20 m. on c.r. This pyramid was badly constructed and founded on ca. 40 cm. of debris, not on solid ground. It was badly collapsed and unstable and could not be properly excavated. No accurate plans and elevations were made by the Expedition.

- ENCLOSURE
  - None traced.

- CHAPEL
  - Completely collapsed and fallen into great cave-in of rock over burial chambers. No evidence as to form and size. Among many blocks, presumably from the chapel, found in this cave-in, were two of significance; one was a cornice block, presumably from the pylon, and the other an inscribed block giving the only evidence identifying the owner of this pyramid, probably from beneath this cornice. Both are drawn, Fig. 188, the inscribed block Pl. LXI B.

- F.D.
  - Calf skull and quarter; no pottery; uninscribed faience cups; uninscribed faience, metal, stone, and glass tablets; bronze and iron model tools. At all 4 corners in round holes at ca. 2 m. in from the corners. Pl. LXI C,D.

- SUBSTR.
  - Stair (not fully cleared) in front of chapel (type iv), wide and well cut at E. but very narrow at surface at W. end. Reached top of cornice over entrance, which appeared to be of masonry, and abandoned work. Attempts to go further were fruitless because of complete collapse of rock and presence of infiltrated water which it proved impossible to reduce by bailing. The excavation of the chambers could not be carried out.

A. Inscribed sandstone block, presumably fallen from chapel, giving partial titulary of king beside a scarab in relief on a disc flanked by uraei, on Fig. 188, Pl. LXI B.

N.B.

It is to be noted that the titulary does not entirely agree with that on the statue from the great temple of Gebel Barkal, now in the Museum of Fine Arts, Boston,¹ (MFA 23.735) shown on Fig. 188. B. Frag. of sandstone cornice block, presumably from chapel. Section on Fig. 188.

C. Granite offering-table, rough-dressed, uninscribed, with 5 vases and cakes in relief in field, size not recorded. Pl. LXXIV B.

Nu. 37. (25) Fig. 18g, Pl. lxI E. A queen, name not recovered. Contemporary with Akhratañ (25).

SUPERSTR. Sandstone masonry, badly preserved. Presumed stepped sloping face courses on plinth (type IX) but evidence not clear. Size: 12.15 m. sq. on c.1.

ENCLOSURE Destroyed or overlaid with later construction and not traceable. Presumed to have existed.

CHAPEL Sandstone masonry with recessed door but no pylon (type III). Deep empty niche surmounted by cornice in W. wall. Side walls in part preserved, undecorated.

F.D. None found.

SUBSTR. Stair of 21 steps well in front of chapel (access type IV) ending in a very short flat landing. Round topped entrance doorway (type I). Masonry door-block between jamb (type II) (Pl. lxI F), well laid with rough inner block behind. Two chambers with nearly level floor running through both and one step down from entrance. A. 5.00 X 2.60 m. undecorated, with roof of type IV. B. 5.00 X 2.60 m. undecorated, with roof of type IV. Free-standing axial masonry coffin-bench (type IV). Niche high in W. wall (type IV).

BURIAL One mummy-eye (17-3-25), frags. of a Canopic jar (17-3-178), and a frag. of human skull (17-3-392) constitute the only evidence, apart from the coffin-bench.

Crumpled gold foil.

Small frag. blue glazed steatite: tubular, nature of object unclear.

Mummy-eye: gilded bronze frame with alabaster white, pupil missing. Plaster backing and gilded plaster adhering to edges of frame. Fig. 190.

Large serpentine (?) scarab bearing crudely incised offering formula without name. Fig. 190, Pl. cxxv c.

Upper part of a crude faience shawabti figure. Weathered and distorted, but clearly of late type as found in Nu. 17, 34, 56 and 61. Head of type 1. Height of frag. 5.5 cm. (Apparently all that remains of the shawabti figures of this queen.)

Frag. from torso of a faience shawabti of SENKAMANISKEN (see 17–2–1781–1820, type in 2 c, under Nu. 3).

Two fitting torso frags. from a faience shawabti of Queen Makmale (Nu. 40).

343, 352, 353 Misc. frags., alabaster vessels, not reconstructed.

Two frags. of a Canopic (?) jar. 3.8 cm. thick.

Sherds of RW. vessels, representing 2 handmade bowls and 1 wheelmade jar. Not drawn.

Misshapen RW. dish, handmade. Fig. 190.

Small RW. basin and frags. of ca. 3 more. Fig. 190 (344).

Alabaster vessel with sawn-off rim and frags. of another slightly smaller. Fig. 190 (349).

Rim and neck frag. of a small alabaster vase. Fig. 190.

17- 3-356 Frags. of a large RW. bowl, P-R. wash, wheelmade. Fig. 190.
17- 3-357,392 Three frags. of human bone, including a piece of cranium (392).
17- 3-358-360 A number of wheelmade RW. sherds, not reconstructed, apparently from bowls, flat based pots, and a narrow-necked vessel.
17- 3-361-394 Frags. of 2 or more RW. pots with boss handles, wheelmade. Fig. 190 (394).
393 Frag. of a blue faience shawabti, white body paste.
648 Sheet gold cylinder bead. Fig. 190.

Nu. 15. (26) Fig. 191, Pl. LXII A. King NASTASEN, Prenomen K3-rnh-Rê. Successor of AKHATAI (25), probably son of HARSHOTEF (23).

SUPERSTR.
Sandstone masonry pyramid on plinth course with stepped, sloping face courses (type IX). Interior poorly constructed. No detailed measurements recorded. Size 26.04 m. on c.t.

ENCLOSURE
Sandstone masonry with re-entrant angle (type m).

CHAPEL
Sandstone masonry with pylon but without recessed doorway (type v), Pl. LXII B. Empty stela niche in W. wall. Side walls preserved to ca. 2 c. S. interior wall shows lower part of very lightly incised scene: King seated on throne before table of bread, approached by at least two registers of offering bearers Pl. LXII C.D. Inscribed chapel blocks in debris Pl. LXII E-I. Lintel block showing part of King's titulary (on Fig. 191), Pl. LXII J. Granite base (presumably for offering-table or altar) in center of chapel. Floor paved.

F.D.
No animal bones; pottery bowl and dishes; uninscribed faience cups; uninscribed metal, stone, and perhaps glass tablets; lead ore. In round holes at NW. and SW. only. Not photographed in situ.

SUBSTR.
Very irregular stair of 61 steps, the lowest 3 being very steep. Stair-cut extremely narrow near W. end. In front of chapel and enclosing wall (access type iv). Short flat landing. Entrance doorway broken at top (type i). Masonry door-block between jambs (type rt) Pl. LXII K. A (not measured) had vaulted roof. B (not measured) was larger, with vaulted roof which had largely collapsed. C was not excavated.

NOTE: Incomplete excavation and recording of the chambers was due to extremely dangerous condition of the rock as well as to excessive infiltration of water which did not yield to bailing. The conditions are indicated by the rough sketch on Fig. 191 copied from Expedition Diary of Feb. 28, 1917.

BURIAL
No conclusive evidence. Two sheet gold ears (17-2-1988), amulets, etc. suggest a mummy with gold trappings and equipment.

A corrected version of this figure (see Journal of Near Eastern Studies, Vol. 17, p. 224) appears at the end of this volume, after plate C.III.
In addition to the 73 tombs of the Napatan kings and their women-folk in the Nuri Cemetery, there were several subsidiary buildings on the site which were given the identification numbers Nu. 100 to Nu. 600. Of these Nu. 100, 200, and 300 are intrusions of the Christian Period, while Nu. 400, 500, and 600 are contemporary with the pyramids. We shall deal with these in what appears to be their chronological order. In none of these buildings, with the exception of Nu. 100, were there objects of any significance.

Nu. 500  A rectangular brown sandstone building, of which only the first course, foundation trench, and the butts of a few columns remain. See plan Fig. 214, left, and photograph Pl. LXIII A. Reisner expressed the opinion that this building was a mortuary chapel, the earliest of three used in connection with funerary ceremonies during the early Napatan Period. It is noteworthy that in clearing this building the workmen found an alabaster tablet of F.D. type inscribed with the name of ATLANERSA (Nu. 20).¹

Nu. 600  A rectangular red sandstone building east of Nu. 500, of which even less is preserved. See plan Fig. 214, right, and photograph Pl. LXIII B. Reisner believed this to be another mortuary chapel, intermediate in date between Nu. 500 and Nu. 400.

Nu. 400  Late Napatan mortuary chapel, east of Nu. 600, lying in the stone quarry northwest of Nu. 1 and west of Nu. 61. It was partly rock-cut in the old quarry face and partly constructed of red sandstone masonry. See plan Fig. 215 and photograph Pl. LXIII B for its position in relation to Nu. 600. The principal feature of this building is the central colonnated court Nu. 402, its walls being of masonry on the west and rock-cut on the east. In the southwest corner, on the masonry walls of Nu. 402, there remain traces of crudely incised relief scenes and inscriptions: at A (see plan) Pl. LXIV A, and at B Pl. LXIV B-C. Pl. LXIV D shows a sandstone lintel found in debris near the doorway between Nu. 401 and 402. The inscription is deeply incised and the signs are painted. The cartouches, which are colored yellow, did not contain any incised name, which, apparently, had been inserted in paint. Reisner suggested (Diary for February 20, 1917) that the name of each king was inserted here in paint at the time of his funeral, the inscription thus serving over and over again. Other decorated blocks found in debris, presumably from the walls of Nu. 402, are shown on Pl. LXV A-G.

100  This is a Christian church of the Post-Meroitic period, during which the Nuri Cemetery was occupied as a dwelling site. The plan of the building (Fig. 216) shows that it underwent at least two alterations during its occupation. The walls of the original building are shown in heavy outline and are fairly well constructed of sandstone masonry, including some clearly re-used blocks taken from the pyramid chapels, Pl. LXV J. Its floor had a stone pavement. A later reconstruction and alteration of the interior with brick, and with a brick floor, is of particular importance because a strip down the center was paved with large stone slabs, some of them inscribed stelae and offering-tables taken from the Napatan pyramids, Pl. LXV H-J. A further alteration consists of buttressing of brick and stone along the outside walls, including a number of sandstone column drums apparently taken from Nu. 400, 500, and 600. The re-used stelae and offering-tables are shown on the plan (numbers 1 to 9) and are as follows:

1. Granite round-topped stela of an otherwise unknown king, possibly to be read AMANIBAKHI (?). Very badly worn from the passage of feet. Height 56.5, width 39.5 cms. Fig. 213A, Pl. LXV G. Beneath a winged disc, a table of bread (center) with the king standing on the right, facing left, and Osiris and Isis standing on the left facing right. Below are six lines of text very badly worn.

2. Hard stone stela of Aspelta, taken from niche in the chapel of Nu. 8. See Nu. 8, Note at end (p. 78). Height 134 cm., width 69.5 cm. Fig. 210, Pl. LXVII.

3. Granite stela of Malewibamani, taken from the chapel of Nu. 11. See Nu. 11, N. B. (p. 177). Height ca. 125 cm. Pl. LXX A. The stone is not in Boston and is not recorded as being in Khartoum. It was so badly worn as to be illegible, except for the cartouche, and was presumably left on the site.

4. Granite stela of Amaniastabarqa, taken from the chapel of Nu. 2. See Nu. 2, NOTE (p. 169). Height 137, width 70 cm. Fig. 211, Pl. LXVIII.

5. Round topped sandstone stela, completely defaced and illegible. Height ca. 115 cm. Not illustrated.

6. Granite offering-table of Amanibakh (?). The name is not enclosed in a cartouche. Length 98 cm., height 70 cm. Fig. 213 B, Pl. LXXV B.

7. Black granite stela, completely defaced and illegible, used as a sill outside south doorway. Height ca. 108, width ca. 58 cm. Not photographed. There is no record of its having been removed from the site.

8. Granite offering-table of Sr/Aspqa, presumably taken from the chapel of Nu. 4, and found built into the northwest corner of the main wall. (There was a granite block built into each of the four corners of Nu. 100, presumably to strengthen them, but only that at the northwest corner was inscribed.) See Nu. 4, Not Registered A (p. 177). Measurements not recorded. Text on Fig. 212, Pl. LXXII B. Merowe Museum, No. 14.

In addition two sandstone Coptic-Greek grave stones were found in debris south of the south wall of Nu. 100. They are reproduced on Pl. LXXI A, B.

Nu. 200 and 300. Throughout the area north of Nu. 1 and overlying the queens' tombs along the ridge extending northward were many remains of Christian house walls, indicated in red on the general map of the site. These walls were constructed of materials taken from the older structures, together with mud brick, and incorporated with some of these older walls. They were largely destroyed in excavating in order to clarify the plans of the tombs over and among which they had been built. Their existence serves to explain the presence of the church Nu. 100, much of the plundering done in the pyramids, and the many fragments of Coptic pottery found all over the site.

Location Index

Following is the list of the present locations of such objects found at Nuri as can be traced from available records. In general it may be stated that the significant movable finds were divided between the Sudan Government and the Expedition, approximately half of all important objects being assigned to each party. Of the fragmentary duplicate material the major part was assigned to the Expedition which had the responsibility for publication and therefore needed all possible material for study. Most of the Expedition share was shipped to Boston for this purpose, but a portion (notably a large body of fragmentary pottery) was left on the site, since it appeared that drawings, measurements, descriptions and photographs made in the field, constituted an adequate record.

Of the objects which came to Boston, such pieces as seemed suitable for exhibition were assigned Museum number (e.g. 20.555) and incorporated into the permanent collection. The rest were kept in storage and recorded under their Expedition numbers (e.g. 17-3-555) by which they are identified in this publication. These latter are listed in the following index simply by the word “Boston.”

The objects assigned to the Sudan Government were for the most part shipped to Khartoum to be housed in the Museum there, but some of the bulkier objects were placed in the local museum at Merowe, headquarters of the Administration of Northern Province (Dongola). All objects retained in the Sudan were given numbers in the central catalogue in Khartoum (e.g. Khtm. 1492) but those housed at Merowe were assigned in addition a number in that provincial museum (e.g. Mer. 1). The following numbers in the central Khartoum catalogue refer to objects from our excavations at Nuri: 1348 to 1445, 1447 to 1499, 1501 to 1530, 1540 to 1543, 1554 to 1568, 1581 to 1633, and 1851 to 1892.

In addition to the objects housed in Boston and in the Sudan, a few have found their way into other museums. The Expedition presented to the Cairo Museum a representative group of shawabti figures and foundation deposit material out of its share of these classes of objects. Objects from the Expedition’s share of the finds at Nuri, which were presented by it to the Cairo Museum are entered under their Cairo Livre d’Entrée numbers: Cairo numbers 46701 to 46705 are faience shawabti said to come from a queen’s tomb of the time of ATLANERSA (7) (probably Nu. 53 or Nu. 60), but not definitely identified in the Expedition records. The Museum of Fine Arts has also presented to the Musée d’Art et d’Histoire a small group of faience shawabti from Nuri, which will be found mentioned in the following list as in “Brussels.” The Brooklyn Museum (Brooklyn, N. Y.) has acquired from Boston three shawabti figures of TAHARQA (39.2-4), and three of SENKAMANISKEN (39.5 steatite, 39.6, 7 faience).

The Sudan Government, for its part, has made a small scale distribution of shawabti figures and foundation deposit samples to the following museums in England and Canada: The British Museum, London; the Ashmolean Museum, Oxford; and the Royal Ontario Museum, Toronto, Canada. These are recorded in this index as “Brit. Mus.,” “Oxford,” and “Toronto.”

The following index of locations lists only such objects the present location of which is known to the writer. It does not claim to be exhaustive but is believed to include all objects of significance.
