PREFACE

In the prefaces to previous volumes in this series, the writer has sought to express his fundamental debt to the late George A. Reisner, Director of the Harvard University - Museum of Fine Arts Expedition, the records of which form the basis of this work. This system of recording, evolved by Reisner, was followed by various assistants who worked on the sites, including the writer, Mr. Ashton Sanborn, the late Lyman Story, Amory Goddard and the late Mr. A. E. Austin, Jr. Despite the many hands involved, the diaries, object registers, photographs and survey, have provided a well-nigh complete record of the work, and the compilation of these volumes would have been impossible had they been less well devised or less conscientiously followed.

As in previous volumes I am very grateful for the invaluable assistance of a number of collaborators. Dr. L. M. Laming Macadam of Durham University has given me the benefit of his expert knowledge of Meroitic in the deciphering of a number of cursive inscriptions, some of which he has drawn for me himself, and in other cases has corrected my own inadequate readings. Miss Suzanne Chapman has worked tirelessly and with great skill on the drawing of many of the objects and in inking almost all of them. Miss Mary B. Cairns has been indefatigable and accurate in preparing the typescript, and my friend Mrs. Oric Bates has been most helpful in sorting out the large body of small and fragmentary material in the Museum’s storages, in the making of lists and in the many other tiresome but essential chores involved. Finally, but not least, I am grateful to the Director and Trustees of the Museum of Fine Arts in placing at my disposal both adequate working space and the facilities of the whole organization.

General Abbreviations
C. Course of masonry or brick construction.
F.c. Foundation Course; that course of masonry upon which a building is founded; usually projecting somewhat beyond the limits of the superstructure.
F.D. Foundation Deposit.
Inc. Incised.
Inscr. Inscribed, Inscription.
Misc. Miscellaneous.
N.S. Not to scale.
Pol. Polished.
Prop. No. Proportional number: Number obtained by dividing the length of a grave by its width. This proportion varies greatly and, in graves where the burial is missing, gives some indication of the type of burial for which it was made. Graves of the bed-burial Kushite type were generally wide, while those with extended burials were usually narrow.
Ptd. Painted.
Substr. Substructure: that portion of a tomb which lies below ground level.
Superstr. Superstructure: that portion of a tomb which rises above ground level.
Encl. Enclosure.
Debris. The contents of a tomb in which objects are found not in their original position due to a variety of causes as natural collapse, roof falls, decay of burial, or washing due to penetration of water or mud during summer rains. Usually distinguishable from Thieves’ Debris.
T.D. Thieves’ Debris: material disturbed by ancient plundering.
Objects found in Thieves’ Debris are not necessarily from the particular tomb in which they are found, although there is a probability that they are: they may have been dropped by plunderers who had been looting another tomb, or may have been brought to their finding place by thieves of a later date, and be contemporary with the thieves rather than with the tomb in which they are found. Objects, on the other hand, which come from the original undisturbed deposit in a tomb must be contemporary with it.

Miscellaneous Explanations
For type designations of Superstructures and Substructures refer to Chart, p. 211.

References to Figures A–T. (Pottery, Metal Vessels, Stone Vessels, Beads and Pendants:) Where the object described is the one illustrated, its dimensions are given first, followed by the figure reference in italics: 12 Figure A; 1Id Figure R. Where the object described is like the one illustrated, it is referred to as “type of Figure A 12 or Figure R 1Id” followed by its dimensions.

Present Location of Objects: Objects now in Boston: if registered in the Museum collections the registration number, in parentheses, (23,345) is given; if not so registered, the letter B is used. Objects not in Boston are designated by the letter K, and were either delivered to Khartoum or, in the case of unimportant fragmentary material, left on the site.

Workmen X and Y: Dr. Reisner, during excavation both at El Kurru and Meroë, distinguished two styles among certain amulets found in graves contemporary with the early Kushite kings (Pt'ankhy to Tanwetamani), and he called them the products of “Workman X” and “Workman Y.”
Introduction

The four volumes in this series already published are as follows:

This fifth volume is intended to be used in conjunction with them and brings to completion the record of the burial places in the Kushite cemeteries excavated by Reisner between the years 1916 and 1923. It includes all the tombs in the great West Cemetery at Meroe as well as all those in the South Cemetery not dealt with in Volume IV.

The relative locations of the three cemeteries at Meroe North, South and West, are shown on the key-map (folded at the back of this volume). The West Cemetery was in continuous use from the time of PIRANKHY (2) to the end of the Meroitic Period. The South Cemetery was begun at the same period and remained in use up to about 275 B.C., ending with the tombs of Kings ARAKAKAMANI and AMANISLO and of Queen Bartare (30), after which the tombs of rulers are found in the North Cemetery (see R.C.K. IV). Thus from about 750 to 275 B.C. there were two cemeteries serving the city of Meroe, a fact which the writer believes may be explained by the existence of two parallel groups of people living there which he has called the Napatan and the Meroitic groups, the latter being the indigenous inhabitants of what was at first an important provincial city subservient to Napata, and the former consisting of Napatan officials stationed at Meroe but belonging to a different clan. Some years ago, before publication of the present series, the writer attempted to justify this conclusion, and he believes this still to be valid.

In the same place attention was called to another peculiarity of the two cemeteries at Meroe: the fact that, during the first few generations of their use, they contained tombs of two very distinctive types. In the first the deceased was buried in a natural sleeping position, without mummification and lying on a bed, according to indigenous Kushite custom first recorded much earlier at Kerma and later at El Kurru. In the second type burial was extended, usually in a coffin, often showing indications of mummification, and frequently covered with a bead net, in conformity with Egyptian practice at the period. The conclusion was drawn that these two types of graves were those, in the first instance, of the indigenous Kushite population, and in the second of Egyptians, the latter in all probability being priests, scribes or skilled craftsmen working for the Meroitic aristocracy. Such an interpretation seems to be born out by the fact that on the average the bed-burials, where unplundered, were much more plentifully equipped with grave goods than were the coffin burials.

Dating Evidence

Most of the tombs dealt with in the following pages carry an estimation of date (italicised numbers in parentheses) conforming to the system employed in Volumes I–IV. In most instances this is expressed by a range of dates within which the writer believes the particular tomb to fall, and in all too many cases this indication has had to be qualified by queries (?) for lack of sufficient evidence. The basis for these estimates are the following:

1. The natural growth of the site. Each of the two cemeteries was begun on the highest ground available — in each case the western part of the site, and grew in a general easterly direction.

2nd. Indications of date from the forms of superstructures and substructures as worked out on the main royal sites dealt with in the previous volumes and indicated on the chart in this volume which is condensed (with modifications) from those previously published. Further indications of date are supplied by comparing the objects with those from previously published sites in which the dating is fairly close.

3rd. Overlapping: in the many cases where one grave or building is constructed over or intrudes into an older one, attention to which has been drawn in each case by a note.

4th. Masking: in a number of cases tombs have been placed in such a position that their superstructures block or restrict access to the chapel of another tomb immediately to the west, which therefore must be assumed to be older.

All these four considerations have been helpful in the attempt to establish the relative dates of the tombs, and the general picture of development seems reasonably clear, although in far too many cases a firm date for individual tombs appears impossible to establish.

The writer, perhaps more than the users of these publications, is very conscious of the shortcomings resulting from the passage of over a quarter of a century between the completion of excavation and final publication. The sources available were the records of the Expedition and such physical objects as were assigned by division to the Museum in Boston. Like all such records, subject to the element of human error and omission under the pressures of active field work, there are some gaps, occasional inadequate photographs, or drawings not confirmed by photographs. Where it has been possible to correct such deficiencies from the objects in Boston, it has been done, but in a number of cases the objects are no longer available. This is particularly regrettable in the case of some Meroitic cursive inscriptions of which a number were only recorded in hand copies made by Prof. Reisner in the field. Though he had given much study to the previous pioneering work done by Griffith, it is obvious that he could not possibly anticipate the considerable advances made in the decipherment of Meroitic cursive during the last quarter of a century. Being himself an excavator rather than a philologist the writer has sought the advice and cooperation of Dr. M. F. Laming Macadam of Durham University, who has devoted many years of study to this particular field, and has been more than generous with guidance in these matters. He has agreed, when the work of archaeological publication should become available, to undertake a further study of the whole body of inscribed material which he hopes to publish in a 6th volume in this series.

In 1959 Prof. Dr. Fritz Hintze published his Studien zur Meroitischen Chronologie und zu den Opftafeln aus den Pyramiden von Meroë. Dr. Hintze was kind enough to send to both the writer and Dr. Macadam copies of this valuable contribution, and we have discussed it together in some detail. Many of the restorations of the texts of the offering tables have been obvious to us for some time. We have not included them because it was felt that philological commentary was irrelevant until the archaeological task was finished. Prof. Hintze has in the meantime covered some of this ground for us. Since we do not agree in every detail (though we do in the main) we shall in the final volume go over it again, making reference to him where necessary. It may be as well, however, to remind readers of this series that publication of the drawings and photographs of texts is not the end so far as we are concerned, but that commentaries on some of the Egyptian and Meroitic texts are intended. With reference to Dr. Hintze's chronological proposals, which differ in some respects from those published in Volume IV, the writer would like to say here that both Macadam and he are most grateful to him for his interesting and valuable suggestions, some of which are immediately acceptable, and might well have been arrived at by us after completion of the task of presenting the enormous body of relevant material in usable form. We have preferred, however, to reserve a definitive study of the royal and other names and their chronological grouping until this has been done, when we plan to re-examine this whole question in the final publication referred to above. In the meantime we prefer not to accept all of Dr. Hintze's suggestions, but rather to keep this publication consistent with the previous volumes pending further study based on the whole body of material, and since this volume deals primarily with the tombs of secondary personalities, mostly nameless, the chronological grouping formerly used in this series, will be applied to them without prejudice to any eventual modification.

I, part 3, 1905 ed. Schäfer) and it may well be that the man of our amulet is the same. Petrie, Scarabs and Cylinders, p. 39 lists five scarabs with this name, of which one from the McGregor Collection (Newberry, Scarabs XXXVIII, 25) and one in Munich (Petrie, op.cit. Pl. GRAVE: Ill defined child's grave intruded into and over W 733 and clearly later. Depth -31. No other measurements possible. Somewhat denuded.

BURIAL: Apparently intact. Half grown child extended on back, head W., in traces of a box coffin. Figure 47, a.

Note: The record on this grave is unsatisfactory. There is only one poor photograph of the burial, and none of the objects. The necklaces, bracelets, and diadem are here recorded from inadequate field notes. The complex of graves shown on Figure 47, a is not wholly clear as to relative date, but it seems obvious that W 733, which is of type III C, is older than both W 732 and W 734 which are intruded over it. W 776 appears to intrude into the E. end of W 733 and is presumably later although this is not proven.

Rectangular wooden box coffin, probably with vertical projecting corner-posts and three cross battens under floor. The lid was thrown back against N. wall of chamber and left a colored impression of its decoration adhering to mud "gebel." Design could be only partly recovered as shown on Figure 51, g. At least 3 male figures hauling boat by a rope. Behind them traces of what may be hangings on prow. On the boat 3 (or 4) male figures facing aft praying at an altar, and behind this another male figure facing forward. Boat and figures a dull pinkish drab; water is black zig-zags on greyish white; general background blue.

Note:
On the dating of W 263 Reisner in Diary, January 18, 1923, says:
"This large stair and chamber lies in a wide free space between W 4 and W 14. W 4 at north is crowded up against W 3 and W 32, and masks the chapel of W 5, which suggests that a large structure must have existed to the south at the time W 4 was built. No trace of Superstructure W 263 now remains. Thus probably W 4 is later than W 263 and certainly later than W 5 and W 32." See Map. On the basis of this observation, and other considerations of building type and contents, I place W 263 first in date, followed by W 14 and W 32 about contemporary with each other, with W 5 a generation later, and place W 3 still later than these tombs, with W 4 latest of all in the series.

Under winged disc with uraei depends a tablet with incised inscription in Meroitic hieroglyphs reading “Son of R. Osiris.” Scene: male figure offering to Osiris enthroned with Isis behind. Below: four lines of Meroitic cursive text with the name TEDEQEN. Pub. by U. Monneret de Villard, “Inscrizione della Regione di Merco” in Kush VII, 96-98 with Pl. XXIII.

Unregistered D (23.873) Granite offering table with sinkage on under side to fit on B, C. above. Incised scene: Nephthys and Anubis at a table of offerings. Two bordering Meroitic cursive inscriptions, the inner one largely illegible (deliberately chiselled out?). The owner’s name is TEDEQEN as in the stela above. Pub. with 23-3-871 above. Kush VII, 94-96, Pl. XXII. L. over spout 37.0, W. 38.0, Tk. 9.5 cm. Figure 61, b-e. [AT Y AGAINST W. FACE OF SUPER.]

Note: The objects 23-3-871, 872 and Unregistered A-D. all appear to have come from the same chapel. Although it cannot be proven that they belong to W 19, the fact that the chapel of that tomb has been completely destroyed and that the two deposits X and Y have been carefully made against the faces of W 19, suggests that they had been piously removed from that chapel and deposited close to the pyramid when the chapel was dismantled at a later period.

BURIAL Intact. Adult body extended, head W. lying on ca. 20 cm. of debris without trace of coffin. Objects in situ. Figure 72, a, b.

Note: The finding of this intact burial lying on debris indicates either a re-use of an older tomb, or else a long delay between making of the chamber and deposit of the burial, more probably the former. The tomb is probably older than W 316, the Superstructure of which, now destroyed, would probably have lain over the stair of W 317. See Map.

The image contains a page from a document discussing archaeological findings from West and South Cemeteries at Meroe, including descriptions of various artifacts such as pottery, beads, and amulets. The page provides detailed descriptions and measurements for each object, along with notes on their context and composition. The text is a part of a larger report on the artifacts found during an excavation, with specific details about each item's appearance, materials, and historical significance. The page also includes references to other segments of the report, indicated by references to figures and groups, which suggest a comprehensive analysis of the artifacts found. The text is technical and informative, aimed at providing a detailed account of the archaeological discoveries.

BURIAL Main burial adult, extended on back, head W. in remains of wooden box coffin at N. (Type IX N.). S. of coffin two extended adult skeletons, heads W. Also three further subsidiary burials doubled up or disturbed at S. and E. Pottery, etc. in situ. Figure 143, a, b.

Note: Immediately W. of Super. a pit descends vertically to roof of chamber, at the base of which a sandstone offering table with cursive Meroitic inscription has been carefully set face down. Figure 143, c; 145, c. The pit looks like a plunderer’s penetration, but the offering table appears to have been placed so that the deceased might see the scene and inscription. There are no obvious signs of plundering in the chamber. The explanation of this unique situation is not apparent. Near E. end of stair a grave with extended burial, head E. seems unrelated to this tomb.

Disturbed. Figure 147, a. Skeletons of two oxen and a calf at base of stair. Figure 147, c. Chamber A contains: two extended adult skeletons, one incomplete, heads W. on center axis; 6 contracted and confused skeletons in NE. quarter; confused human bones at S. side. Chamber B contains only a few large pots. The suggestion is made that the plunderers entered Chamber B and dragged the main burial (and possibly another) into Chamber A; that the 6 bodies at NE. in A are sacrificial burials approximately in situ; and that there has been some disturbance throughout due to plundering.

408 K Fragments of at least 7 RBrW. bowls, type of Figure C, 16, and fragments of a thin Pol.RBrW. bowl, type of Figure F, 19. H. ca. 7.5, D. ca. 9.5 cm. [T.D. CHAMBER FLOOR.]

409 K RBrW. bowl, type of Figure K, 16, broken. H. 8.3, D. ca. 15.8 cm. [T.D. CHAMBER FLOOR.]

Note: The dating of this tomb, which is without clear chronological relation to other neighboring ones, rests on three elements: the type of burial chamber, the position of the coffin bench, and the style of the representations on this offering table. The latter is very similar to that on the O.T. of ARITENYESBEKHE, found in debris E of Chapel Beg. N. 19, but belonging undoubtedly to his tomb, Beg. N 34. See RVK IV, 164-177, Pl. XL B. While the type of chamber and coffin bench would indicate a date not previous to (54), the O.T. would suggest a date perhaps slightly earlier, and accordingly I have proposed a date range of (50-60?) for the tomb. Macadam considers the script archaic to transitional and finds it startling in such a late context. He reads the names: Deceased Atedekey, mother Mmmnšt, father Reteite.

Outside the mapped area of the West Cemetery the Expedition cleared one tomb of a different type, presumably post-Meroitic in date, and presumed to be similar to mound burials excavated by Garstang, and published by him in Meroe, The City of the Ethiopians, Oxford, 1911, Chapter VII, p. 29 seq. The Expedition's records of this tomb consist of Diary entries of March 12 to 16, 1923, photographs and Object Register records of the objects.

G (Garstang) t. (post-Meroitic)? No Map reference.

A low, roughly circular gravel mound (dimensions not stated) about 200 m. NE of Garstang's house at Meroe Siding. Stairway cut in gravelly "gebel" descending from near E. edge of mound; with rudimentary steps cut in gravel. This leads to a red-brick blocking, broken by thieves at its S. end. Figure 187, A. The burial chamber was low and oval, with greatest dimension N-S. and had been plundered. No trace of burial, but the following objects in thieves' debris.

GRAVE B. No super., encl., chapel or f.d.s. Rect. Pit Grave N.S. III A. 203 x 62 – 66. Prop. No. 3.3 –. Intact adult burial extended on back, head N., in traces of anthropoid coffin and traces of a bead net. Traces of mummification. Figure 194, B, E. No objects.

Note: The masonry wall which runs SE-NW. over 101 B appears to be later than both graves and is unrelated to them. Reisner thought (Diary) B was somewhat later than A, but both are very similar in type.
Figure 194
There were found on the coffin bench 3 complete pairs of eyes and eyebrows, and two brows and one eye of a fourth pair, leading to the conclusion that there had been a cartonage mummy case (with inset eyes) inside the three anthropoid wooden coffins. The mummy had been overlaid with silver trappings and covered with a net of faience and silver beads strung on braided silver wire.

46 B Miscellaneous faience beads of types like 21-1-33 above. [T.D. STAIRWAY.]

54 B 20 lead pellets of irregular shape. Rolled and folded flat strips, some pierced with holes. Suggestive of sinkers for fish net. L. 2.2 to 4.4 cm. Not illustrated. [BETWEEN CORE AND CASING OF SUPERSTRUCTURE, IN FRONT OF AND ON LEVEL WITH BASE OF RHYTON 21-1-55.]

55 (21.2286) Attic plastic Rhyton. Amazon on a horse with single handled red figured vase on her back. Painted on support beneath the horse, much faded but legible, one side a lion, on the other side a boar. Incised on base one side the inscription ΣΩΤΑΔΗΣ ΕΠΟΙΗΣΕΝ. L. over all 28.0, H. 34.0, W. 10.2 cm. In situ Figure 209, B; Figures 212-215. [BETWEEN CORE AND CASING OF SUPERSTRUCTURE, DIRECTLY BEHIND CHAPEL EMPLACEMENT.]

Note: The entire object is hollow, open at the base, and was made in sections (horse's head; the vase, head, and torso of the rider) and fused together. One ear of horse missing. For further description see D. von Bothmer: "Amazon in Greek Art," Oxford 1957, p. 222, No. 81, where full references to other publications are given, inter alia Sir John Beazley, A.R.V. (1942), p. 458, No. 3., G.M.A. Richter, Attic Red Figured Vases (1946), p. 1.11.

6 K Base of a small mud cup. D. 4.2 cm. Not illustrated. [CHAMBER DEBRIS.]

7 K Bones from skeleton of a child (?-12 years). [CHAMBER DEBRIS.]

8 (+21-1-39) K Pol.RW. bowl. H. 15.0, D. 17.0 cm. Figure 211, D. [T.D. IN STAIR AND CHAMBER.]

According to D. von Bothmer, loc. cit. this object may be dated to about 400 B.C. If my estimate of the date of S 24 is approximately correct the vase should have been deposited there between ca. 398 and 355 B.C. (according to Hintze somewhat later: 369-340 B.C.). In either case the vase must have been preserved for between 50 and 100 years before being deposited, an interval which does not seem unduly long considering its obvious value. How it got to Meroë is, of course, a matter of pure speculation.

SOUTH CEMETERY SUMMARY  S 71-82

21-3-5 B Faience beads as follows: [FLOOR DEBRIS IN GRAVE.]
141 cylinder, faded, type of Figure R, V a. L. 1.6 to 1.7 cm. 30 ball, rough, faded, type of Figure R, b. D. 0.3 to 0.5 cm. 2 ring, faded, type of Figure R, VI g. D. 0.4 to 0.5 cm.

S 72 (10-11)? Map 11-G.

NO SUPER., ENCL., CHAPEL or F.DS. STAIR: apparently unfinished.
ENTRANCE: destroyed. CHAMBER: small with collapsed roof. No trace of burial.

Note: The tomb may never have been completed or used. Its position would suggest that it was older than S 40 which would have masked its chapel if one ever existed. See Map. At west end of chamber the Diary records finding on the floor a single alabaster vase, not otherwise recorded. Diary, March 8, 1921: "Small alabaster ointment jar of old form (Group A-B, Nuri)." Note that the Nuri tombs, so grouped by Reisner cover the period from (5) to (6). The jar in question appears never to have been drawn, measured, or photographed.

NO SUPER., ENCL., CHAPEL of F.DS. Rect. Pit Grave EW. III. C. 240 x 90 - ca. 100. Prop. No. 2.5 +. No trace of burial. Empty.

S 74-80. These numbers not used.

S 81 (17-18)? Map 9-10-H.

Note: Must have been built after collapse of chapel S 82 and hence later.

21-2-195 K Fragments of at least 5 vessels, of the following forms: [DEBRIS OUTSIDE DOORWAY.]
a) CRW. jar, R.washed outside. H. ca. 44.4. D. 19.8 cm. Figure 229 C. b) Fragment of a RW. dish, R.Pol. inside. H. ca. 5.0. D. ca. 19.0 cm. Figure 229 D.

202 B Alabaster(?) ball, perhaps a playing piece. D. 1.4 cm. [CHAMBER DEBRIS.]

203 K Fragments of two or more thick-walled alabaster vessels. Tk. 0.6 to 1.3 cm. [CHAMBER DEBRIS.]

229 K Forsherds as follows: [FLOOR DEBRIS IN CHAMBER.]
a) Fragments of a CRBrW. bowl, R.washed outside rim, type of F. Figure 211. (See S 24 above.) D. ca. 19.0 cm. b) Flat rim fragments of a CRW. bowl of D. ca. 23.0 cm.

21-2-230 K Fragments of at least 3 alabaster vessels, including one like 21-2-164 from S 32. [FLOOR DEBRIS IN CHAMBER.]

231 K 2 green glazed faience cylinder beads, type of Figure R, V a. L. 1.9 cm. [FLOOR DEBRIS.]

21-3-90 K Pol.RW. bowl, type of Figure E, VII. 18.0, D. 21.8 cm. [ORIGINAL FILLING AT FOOT OF STAIR.]

91 K Pol.RW. bowl with red line painted decoration. H. 18.0, D. 25.3 cm. Figure 229 E. [ORIGINAL FILLING AT FOOT OF STAIR.]

SUPER.: masonry f.c. only (at North), presumed VI(?) ca. 4.35 M.Sq. NO ENCL., CHAPEL, F.DS. or STAIR. Rect. Pit Grave N.S. III. B. 330 x 150 - 210. Prop. No. 2.2. Plundered. Figure 229 F.

Note: Built in part over the older S 216. Older than S 81. See Map.

21-2-691 and 21-3-1 B Faience beads (of net?) as follows: [GRAVE DEBRIS.]
416 cylinder, faded blue, type of Figure R, V b. L. 0.8 to 1.2 cm. 72 ball, rough discolored, type of Figure R, b. D. ca. 0.4 cm. 443 ring, blue, black and red, type of Figure R, VI g. D. ca. 0.4 cm.

692 K 3 scraps sheet bronze. Tk. 0.2 cm. [GRAVE DEBRIS.]

693 + 21-3-3 K Fragments of a thick-walled alabaster vessel. Tk. rim 0.7, Tk. body 1.3 cm. [GRAVE DEBRIS.]

694 K Sherd of CRW. used as a scraper. Tk. 1.5 cm. [GRAVE DEBRIS.]

695a (24·5 I 3) Sheet gold amulet: vulture with spread wings. Rough cut, incised details. H. 1.0, W. 1.3, Tk. 0.025 cm. Figure 229 G, lower.

b B Sheet gold amulet: Uraeus, incomplete. H. 1.0 cm. Figure 229 G, upper. [GRAVE DEBRIS.]

21-3-2 B Faded faience oval playing piece. L. 1.8, H. 1.7 cm. Figure 229 I. [GRAVE DEBRIS.]

4 + 175 B 3 fragments of grey bodied blue glazed faience shawabti figures, much decayed. Thick hand modelled type, one with part of black painted inscription, including a name ([M]alenakan?). Largest fragment H. 5.5 cm. Inscription Figure 229 H. [GRAVE DEBRIS.]

Note: Other fragments with the same name as well as fragments with other names were found in S 84 immediately to the west, but it is unclear whether either was the tomb of origin. The name Malenakan(?) suggests that of King MALENQAEN of Nu. 5 (RCK II, p. 140 seq.) but it is differently written and the determinative suggests that the owner was a woman.

174 K Sherd of RW. and FHRW. Db. slip, ribbed. [GRAVE DEBRIS.]
S 83 (14-15). Map 9-H.

Super.: masonry (?) ca. 5.20 M.Sq. No encl., chapel of F.DS. Stair: v. Entrance: ii. No block. Chamber: large single oval v with collapsed roof. Heavily plundered. Figure 230 A.

21-2-173 + 197 + 198 + 226 B Many fragments of blue glazed grey bodied faience shawabti, some with remains of black ink inscriptions. Figures 229 J-O; 230 B, C. [disturbed debris in stair and outside entrance, except 198 which came from surface debris adjacent to stair.]

Note: These fragments represent at least three different persons: 21-2-198b, Figure 229 L, 230 B 1/6, 2/5 are from figures originating in S 132 (see Section III, p. 363, Figure I93 C, D); 21-2-226, Figures 229 N, 230 C bear the same name as 21-3-4 + 175 from S 82 (see above); and some of the rest show traces of a woman's name. Whether any of these shawabti fragments can be assigned to this tomb is doubtful; other shawabti fragments were found in S 88, 125 and 214 and, with the exception of the group from S 132, it would seem that all had been widely scattered by plundering and cannot be identified as to tomb of origin.

174 B + K Misc. scraps ivory. Tk. 0.4 cm. [Stair, upper debris.]

175 K Scrap of sheet bronze. Tk. 0.2 cm. [Stair, upper debris.]

176 K 1 blue faience bead, type of Figure R, V b. L. 1.6 cm. [Stair, upper debris.]

177 K 5 fragments thick-walled alabaster vessels. [Stair, upper debris.]

178 K Potsherds: brown surfaced BkW., and FHRW. Db. slip, ribbed. [Stair, upper debris.]

227 K 2 sherds brown surfaced BkW. [Debris at entrance.]

228 K Fragment alabaster vessel. Tk. ca. 2.0 cm. [Debris at entrance.]

S 86 (6-7). Map 9-I. Figure 231.

Super.: foundation trench only, presumed iv. ca. 7.00 M.Sq. No encl., chapel, F.D.S. or Stair. Rect. Pit Grave EW. III b(?). 4.20 x 2.80 - 2.40. Prop. No. 1.5. Traces of 4 sinkages in floor suggest a bed 240 x 170. Plundered. Figure 231 A.

Note: Foundation trench at SW. corner runs over the older grave S 164.

21-2-266 K Fragments bronze vessel. Tk. 0.1 cm. [Grave, floor debris.]

267 K 3 fragments alabaster vessels. Tk. 1.0 to 0.4 cm. [Grave, floor debris.]

268 K 5 spiral shells and fragments of a larger one. L. ca. 1.1 cm. [Grave, floor debris.]

269 B Fragments of ivory inlays: parts of rosettes and squares. [Grave, floor debris.]

270 + 284 B 2 complete and 12 fragmentary faience pendants. L. ca. 3.0. Figure 231 B. [Grave, floor debris.]

Note: Compare those from horse-graves at Kurru (RCK I, Plates LXVIII A, LXIX A).

271 B Faience game pieces, both red and grey bodied. [Grave, floor debris.]

a) 15 spherical. D. ca. 1.6 cm. Figure 231 c b) 1 lentoid. 2.2 x 1.7. Tk. 1.1 cm. Figure 231 D.

272 B 5 irregular game pieces, 1 carnelian, 2 green jasper, 2 opaque whitish stone, 1.7 to 2.7 x 2.0 to 2.2 x 1.1 to 1.8 cm. [Grave, floor debris.]

273 + 283 B Faience beads of net(?). [Grave, floor debris.]

181 cylinder (2 sizes), faded. L. 1.4 to 2.5 cm. 1.290 ring, blue. black and red. D. 0.4 to 0.7 cm. 23 twin rings, blue. D. ca. 0.5 cm. All Figure 231 E.

274 K Lip of cup or bowl, soft DbW. Tk. 0.4 cm. [Grave, floor debris.]

275 K Fragments of an iron (dagger?) blade. L. over 20.0, W. 3.0. Tk. 0.8 cm. [Grave, floor debris.]

283 K 3 game pieces like 271 above, and fragments of 2 more. Also one of black and white mottled stone. [Grave, floor debris.]

286 K Chalcedony Udjat. L. 1.6 cm. [Grave, floor debris.]

287 B 7 fragments of ivory sticks (game pieces). Figure 231 F. [Grave, floor debris.]

288 K Small fragments of bronze bowls. Tk. ca. 0.1 cm. [Grave debris.]

289 K Fragments of an iron dagger, incomplete. L. 19.5, W. 4.4 cm. [Grave debris.]

290 K Base of a round bottomed DbW. jar. D. 5.4 cm. [Grave debris.]

291 K Fragments of 2 alabaster vessels; a bowl of D. ca. 11.0 cm., and of a jar with knob handle, Tk. 0.4 to 1.0 cm. [Grave debris.]

SUPER.: rubble VI. 6.08 M.Sq. NO ENCL., CHAPEL of F.D.S. STAIR: V. NO BLOCK. ENTRANCE: II. CHAMBER: single V rectangular. No trace of burial. Plundered.

23-3-835 B 2 carnelian ball beads. D. 0.55 cm. [T.D. IN STAIR AND CHAMBER DEBRIS.]

840 B Pol. BkW. bowl with four legs and base plate. Legs and base decorated with impressed dots. D. 20.6, H. 11.6 cm. Figure 232 A. [ORIGINAL FILLING OF STAIR ON STEP 7.]

Note: This vessel is reminiscent of two found in original filling of stair in W 348 (see Section I, p. 74, and IS, 16 Figure L), a tomb the original use of which has been tentatively dated (30-40?). The example from S 97 would appear to be of earlier date, and the type, which is rare at Meroe, may have been a local ware, seldom placed in tombs here, but of prolonged use in less sophisticated areas.

Super.: rubble VI ca. 6.70 M.Sq. No Encl., Chapel of Fds. Stair: VI. No Block. Entrance: I. Chamber: single V rectangular with one low internal step. No trace of burial. Plundered. Figure 233 E.

Note: Apparently later than S 502, the SW. quarter of which seems to have been destroyed to make room for S 100. The Chapel of the latter, if one existed, must have been very small.

23-3850 Miscellaneous fragments as follows: [T.D. in Chamber.]

- a A few faience beads of net. Not measured.
- b A few fragments ivory, including one of part of a female head, very fine work. H. 1.9 cm. Figure 233 F.
- c Crumpled gold foil.

Note: This Super. is built over an older grave S 102-1. Its substructure lies quite abnormally to the West of Super., probably because of the slope of the hill. The same situation exists with S 103 below. Note also that the graves S 148 and 149 lie so close to the Super. of S 102 that they must be assumed to be older. See Map. 21-2-193 B Small fragment of an alabaster vessel. Tk. 0.4 to 0.7 cm. [Chamber Debris.]

172 K Few fragments of a ribbed HRW. pot, not reconstructed. [SURFACE DEBRIS, S. HILLTOP.]
180 K Fragments of 6 or 7 faience shabtis of Seshnena. See above S. 132, Section III p. 362. Figure 193 C, D. [SURFACE DEBRIS BETWEEN S. 102 AND S. 103.]
181 K Fragments ostrich egg shell. [SURFACE DEBRIS BETWEEN S. 102 AND S. 103.]
182 K Cowrie shell, back cut off. [SURFACE DEBRIS BETWEEN S. 102 AND S. 103.]
183 K Scrap of alabaster. Dk. 0.6 cm. [SURFACE DEBRIS BETWEEN S. 102 AND S. 103.]
434 K Three fragments bronze. Tk. 0.1 to 0.2 cm. [SURFACE DEBRIS, S. HILLTOP.]
435 K Lower part of faded faience amulet: Obverse, standing figure with drooping wings with small female figure in profile. H. 2.7, W. of base 1.3, Tk. 0.2 cm. [SURFACE DEBRIS, S. HILLTOP.]

Note: This unusual beaker clearly comes from Meroë but is not listed in the Expedition records. It was found in the magazines at Giza in 1917 when the camp there was being closed, and there is no record of its provenance. We do not know in which of the three Meroë cemeteries it was found, but it seems clear that such was its origin. Being incomplete and in a very fragile condition, it was eventually returned to Khartoum.
